My Little Color Books

Directions:

- This is a wonderful center activity for my students, and a fun way for them to learn colors and practice other report card skills as well.
- I run the books off at the beginning of the year and have a room helper cut and staple them. I simply have one staple in the top left hand corner.
- I put them in a box and when I'm on that color I pass them out as part of a center activity.
- I make a master of the "My Little Color Book" title page and then run that off on construction paper the color of the book that I'm doing.
- I also make a master (4 on a page) of the coloring picture as well as the word trace.
- If you want to have your students go through magazines and look for a picture of an object that color then cut and paste it, you can have an extra blank page to their booklet. I do a class collage big book so I don't add an additional page.
- My students love these little books and enjoy making them. I encourage them to share and "read" them to their families when they take them home.
- In September when the first one goes home, I FYI parents that this is the 1st in a collection so please SAVE them in the manila envelope that accompanied their 1st mini book. I encourage them to have their child share the books and "read" them to them periodically identifying colors as well as letters and words.

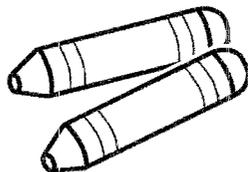

Dear Families,

Learning our colors is one of our report card standards. Making mini-coloring books is a fun way to do that. It also helps your child learn “concepts of print” and other pre-reading and writing skills.

is our first color and the first little book that’s going home. There will be 10 in all. Please keep them in your child’s book box along with the other Easy Readers and other wonderful little books that they will be making in school this year.

There is a blank page at the end of the book. As a Home-Link and to reinforce our color lesson, please have your child find something that is the color being studied and have them glue it on the blank page. It can be a sticker, or something cut from a magazine, etc. Thanks in advance for your cooperation.

Educationally Yours,
