

Reasons to Be an elementary School teacher

- * Cute little kids, cute little paycheck.
- * Shoes that untie themselves.
- * You get to sing your favorite songs over and over and over...
- * With all the bending, standing and running, there's no need for an exercise program.
- * You get to color and paint everyday.
- * You know more than your students.
- * You have snack time, show 'n tell, recess and story time.
- * Lots of unusual and interesting confiscated items.
- * Every day is different and you get to teach everything!
- * You are taller than your students and if you're doing anything right they look up to you.
- * You never have to tell these children to actively take part; they are always active.
- * Their attention spans can be easily measured in minutes, even seconds.
- * You get to go on field trips.
- * You become proficient at coat zipping, snapping and buttoning.
- * You understand the math and make little ones count!
- * You receive love notes and Picasso-type drawings and pictures.
- * You have an adorable and colorful room filled with games and toys!
- * If you're really lucky you have a bathroom in your room or one close by.
- * You feel truly needed.
- * You can feel grateful that you're not dealing with students who are hormones with feet, where there is no need to teach those who already know it all!
- * Finally, You feel extra-special with every hug.
