The year is winding down, students have nailed the standards, temperatures are getting warmer (finally!) and vacation is just around the corner.

One of my readers e-mailed me this wonderful Beach Party idea and gave permission to share her name and ideas on the blog. I thought they were so cute; perfect timing too, incase any of you want to throw a luau or beach party. Here's what she had to say:

Hi Diane I enjoy reading your blog and thought I would pass along some ideas I use for my classroom at the end of the school year that are a hit with my kindergarten students in Den Haag [The Netherlands]

We celebrate the end of the school year and beginning of summer by having a "beach party."

Decorations:

- I decorate the classroom with beach things, most of which I have either in the classroom or at home, and the rest can be purchased at a Dollar Store.
- Use beach towels as tablecloths or to sit on during reading time/circle. etc.

- Wash Frisbees, flip over and use as plates for snack.
- Have inflatable beach balls, sand, water and seashells in a texture table
- Lei's (from The Dollar Store) for prizes
- I have a CD of whale songs and we go "whale watching" at the beach.

Snacks

- Make blue Jell-O with gummy fish mixed in. (Use clear plastic cups so that you can see the fish:)
- We also have "Seaside cupcakes." Frost each cupcake with vanilla/white icing.

- Sprinkle yellow sugar on one half to create the “beach” and blue sugar on the other half to create the “ocean.” (Or use blue icing to make the ocean)
- Open and insert a parasol into each “beach.”
- Attach a gummy bear with a dab of icing onto a life saver “raft” and place onto the blue “ocean.”
- Eat snack outside (weather permitting) and sit on our beach towels

Reading:

At the end of the school year I read Goodbye House and Goodnight Moon. The children are encouraged to draw things they would like to say goodbye to, and then during circle time we talk about what each child drew, and that it's okay to be sad and miss all of the things we did during the school year.

Just thought I would share. Danku for all of your ideas. I hope you continue throughout the summer as we get ready for the fall. Katja Zeldenthuis

Thank YOU Katja for this wonderful idea, and I WILL be continuing to design things through out the summer.

Dear Families,

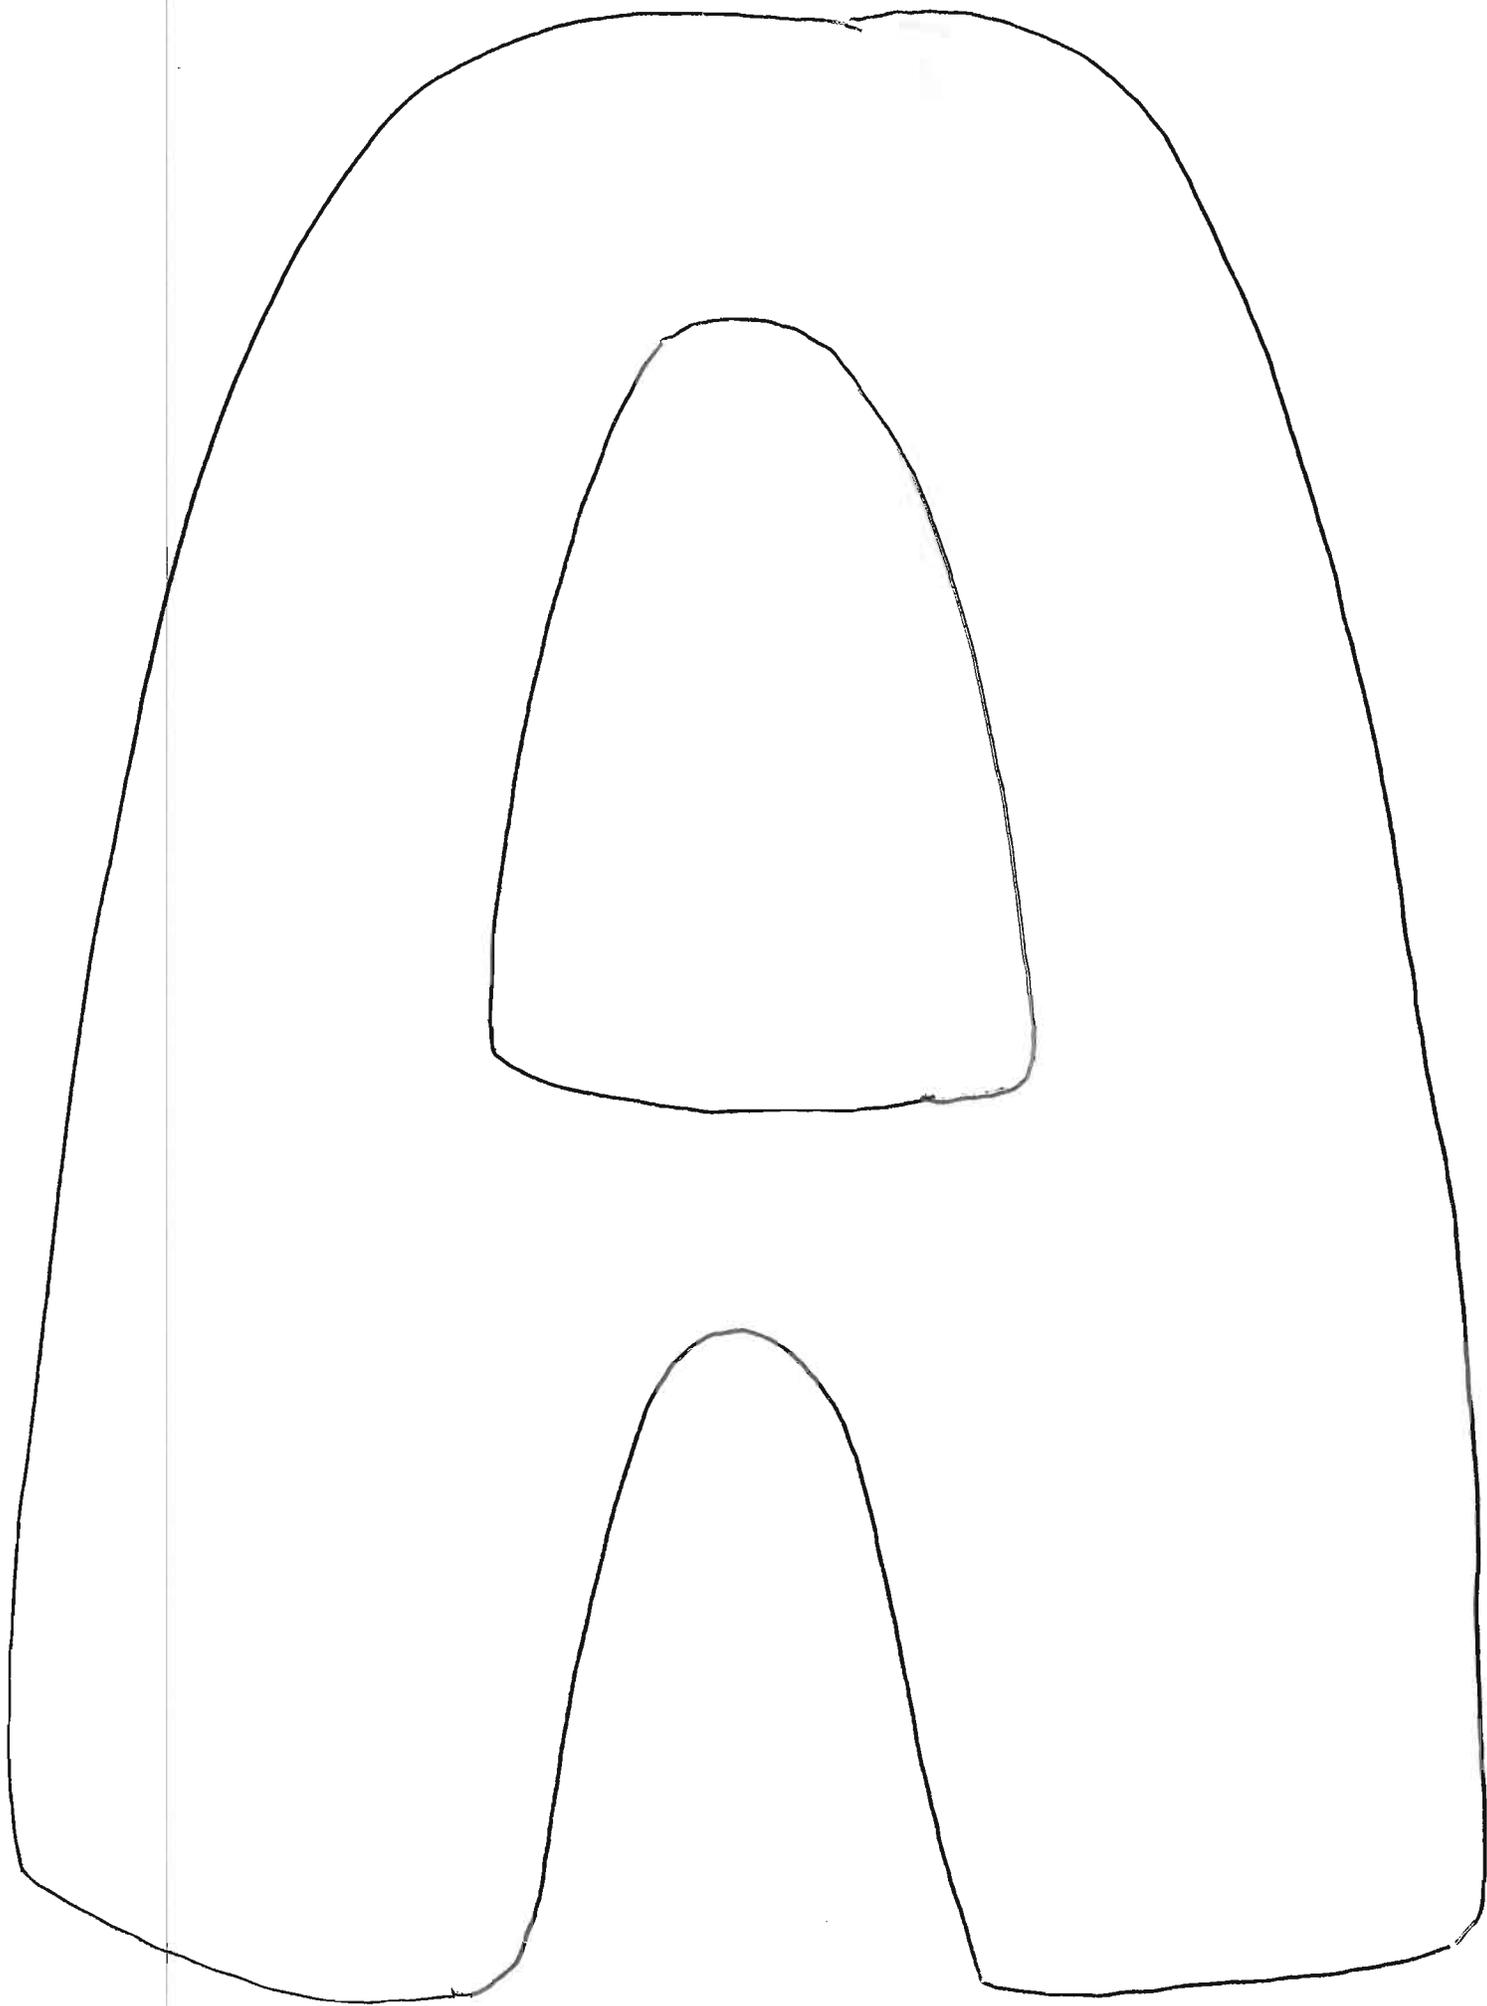

Attached is the letter your child has chosen to collage for our Alphabet Nature Book.

- Please go for a nature walk with them and collect some things to glue to their letter.
- These things can begin with the same letter as the letter on their page such as a piece of glass if your child's letter is G, or they may look like the letter such as a twig that is in the shape of an L if they have the letter L, or they may simply collect things on their walk and glue them on their letter.
- Please have them identify the things that they find and ask them what letters they begin with.
- Your child's page is due

- Thanks in advance for helping us review the alphabet in this fun way.
 - I will be collecting all of the pages and making them into a class book.

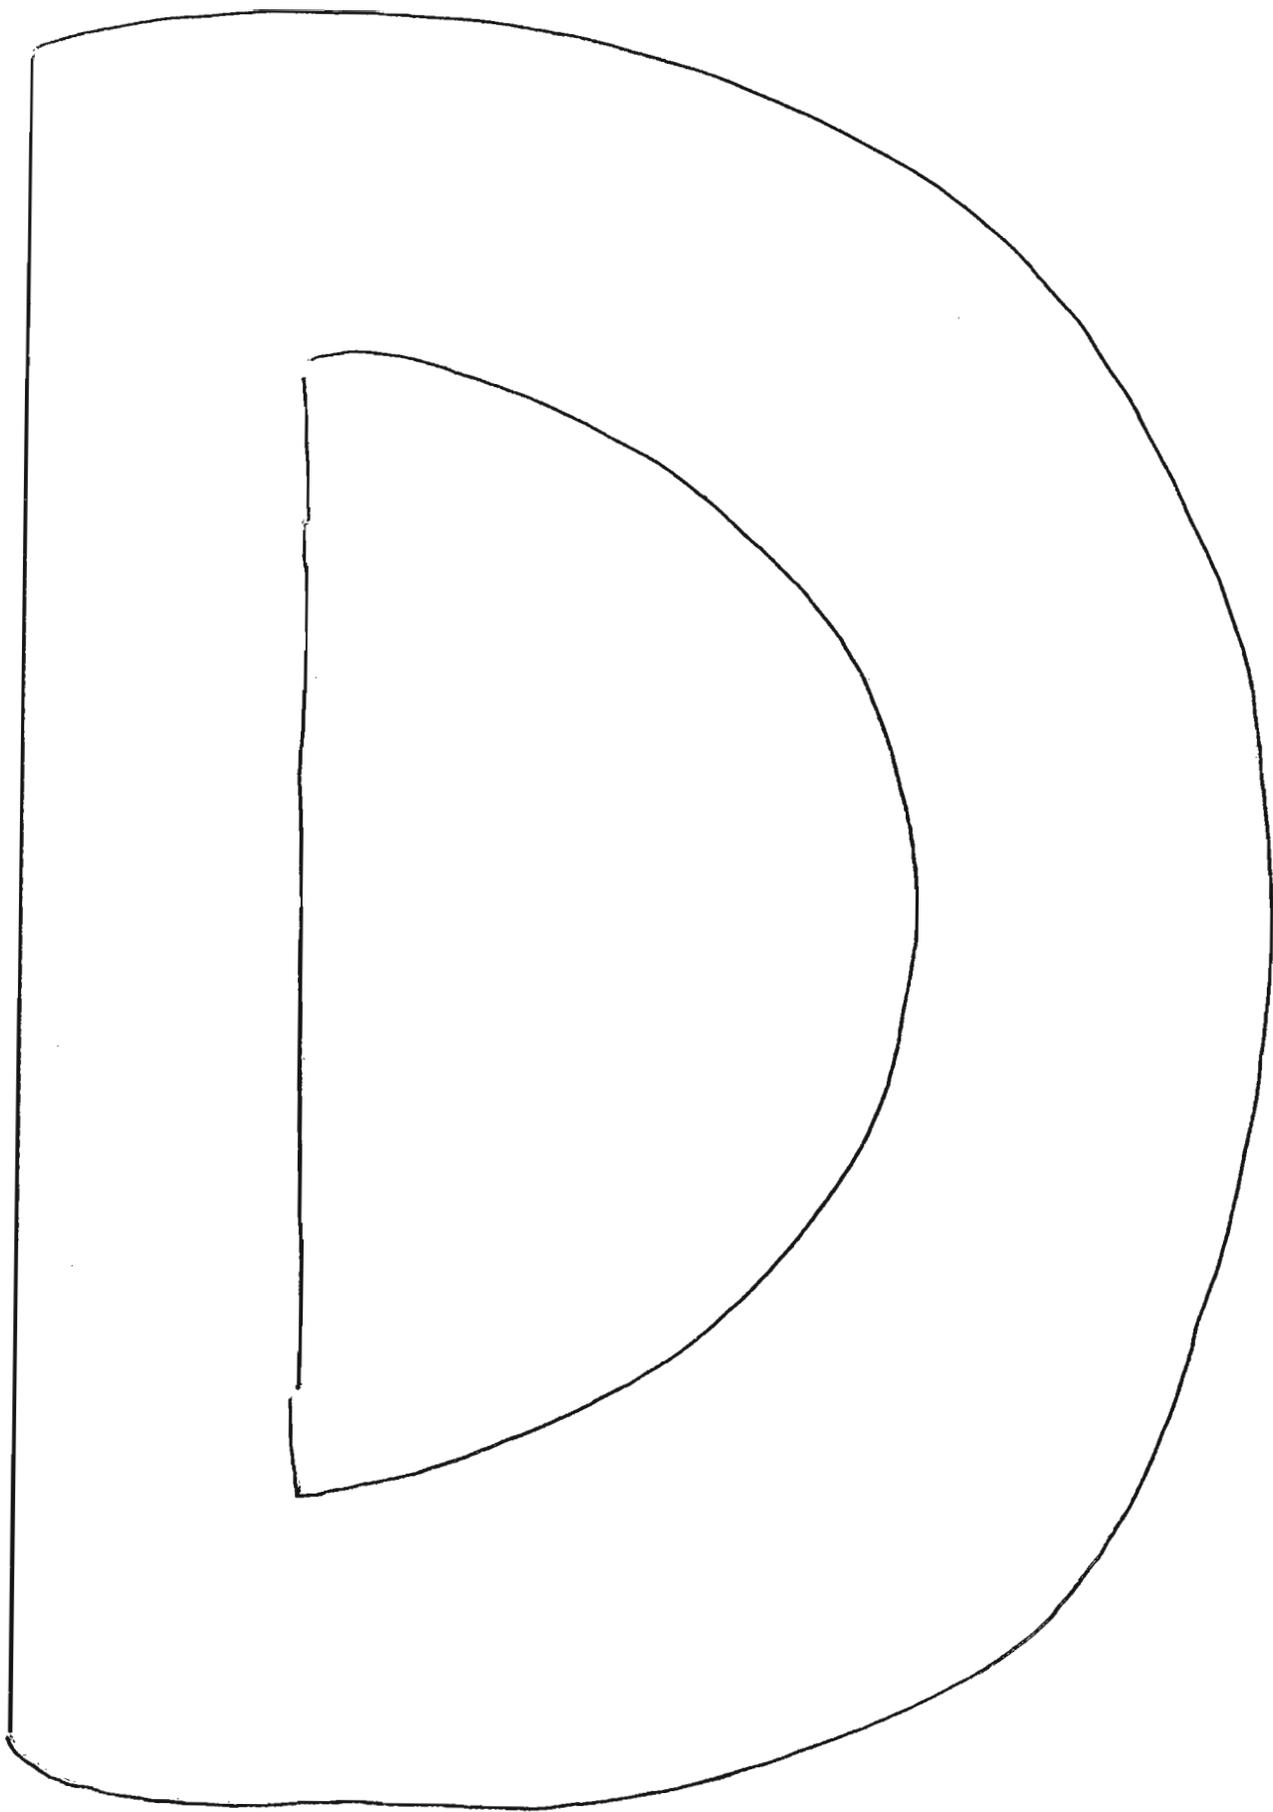

Educationally Yours,

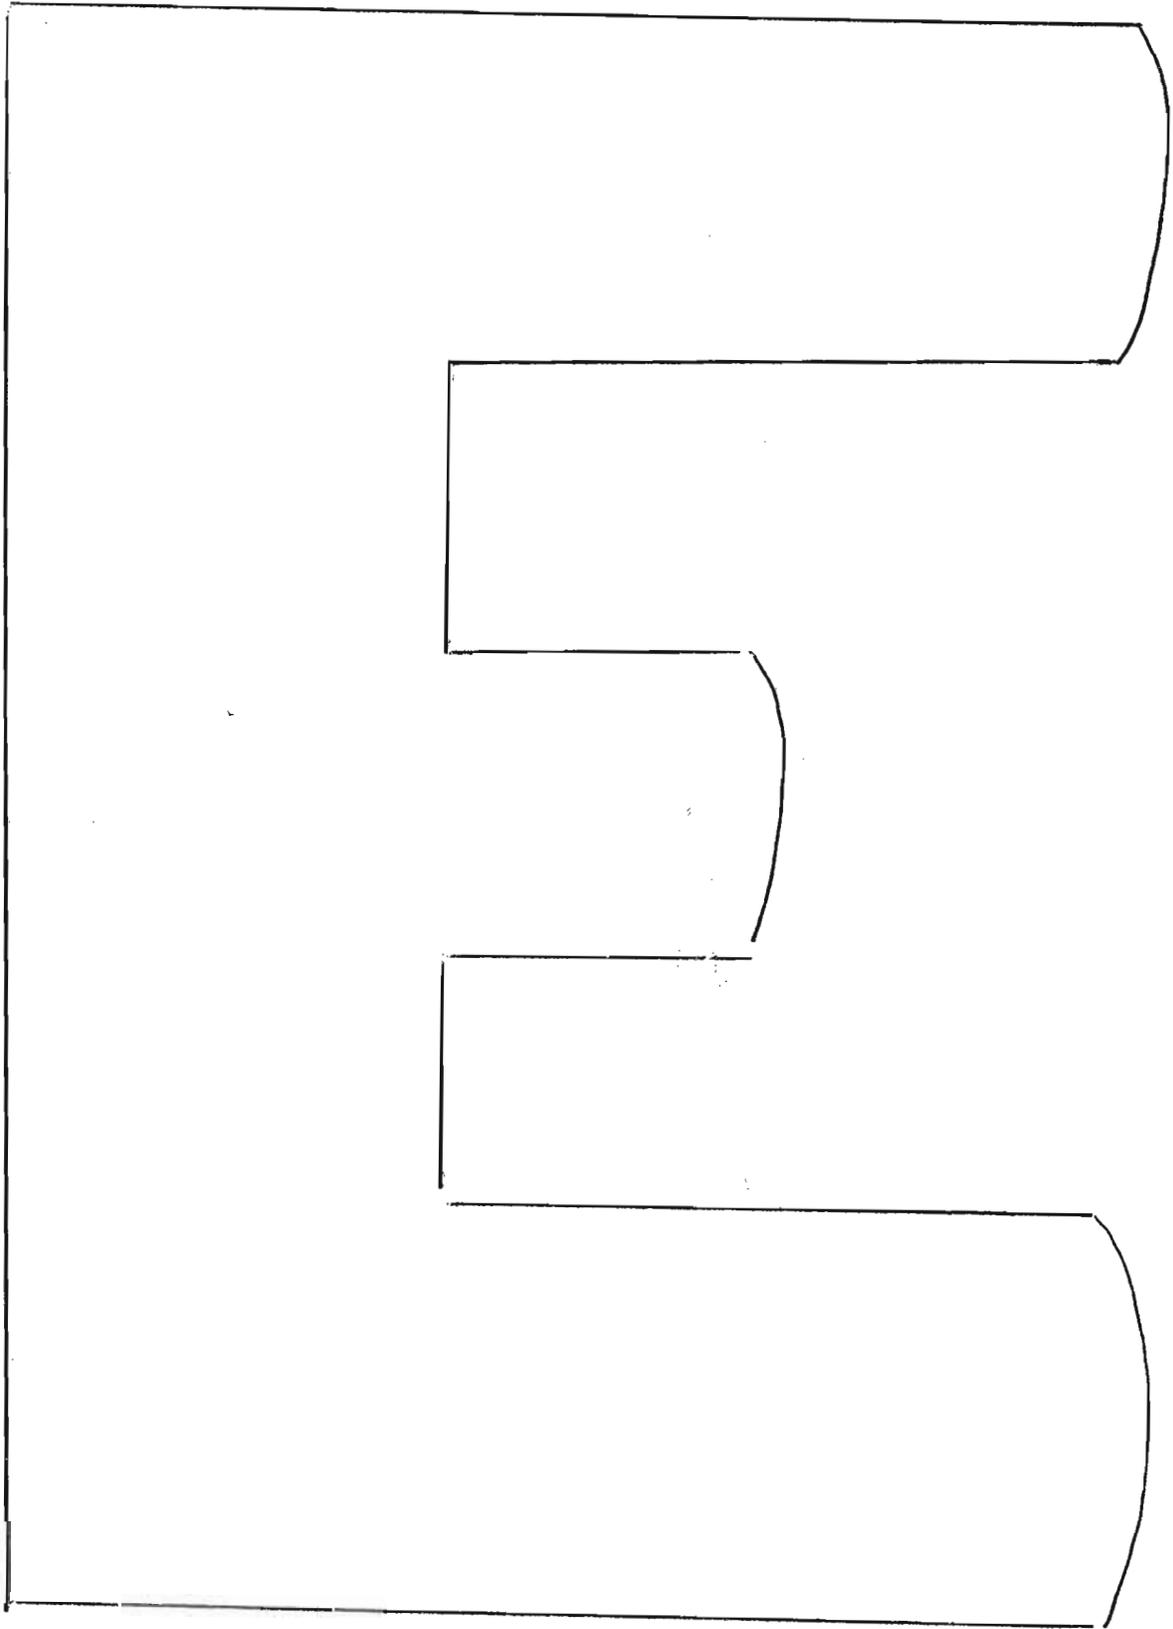

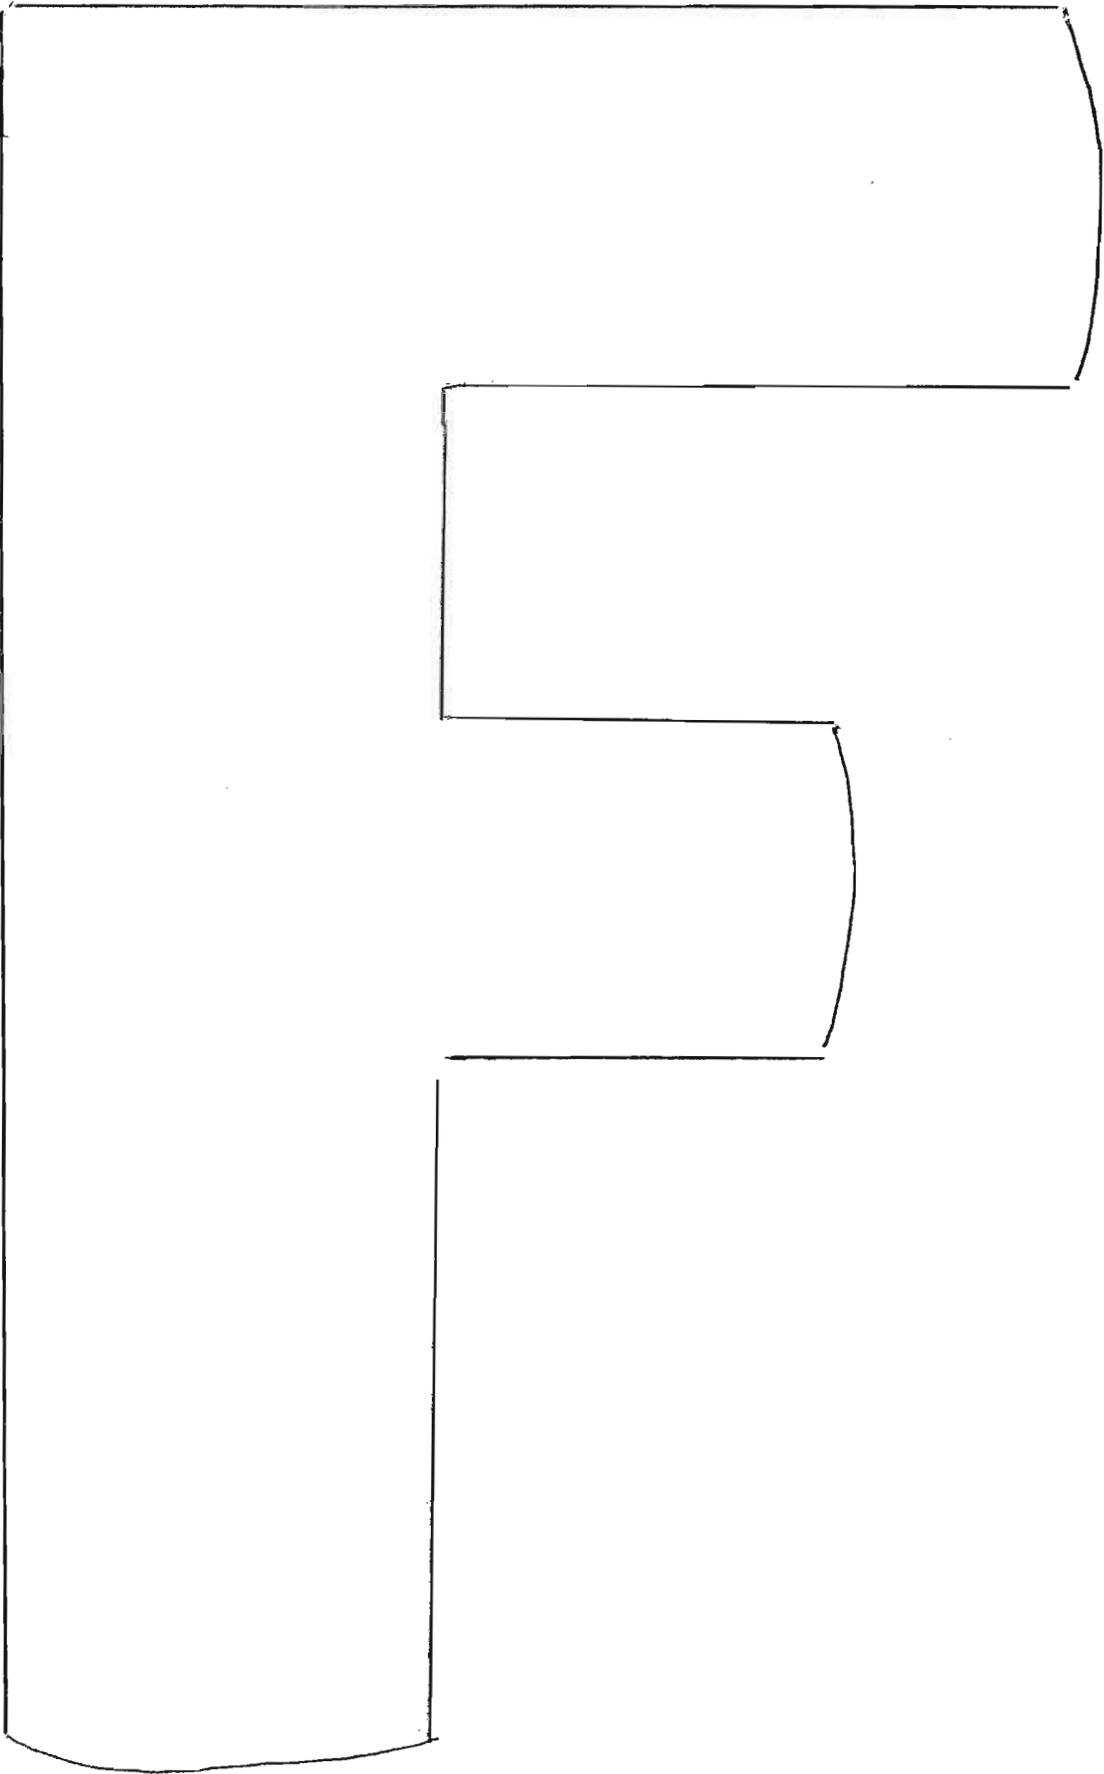

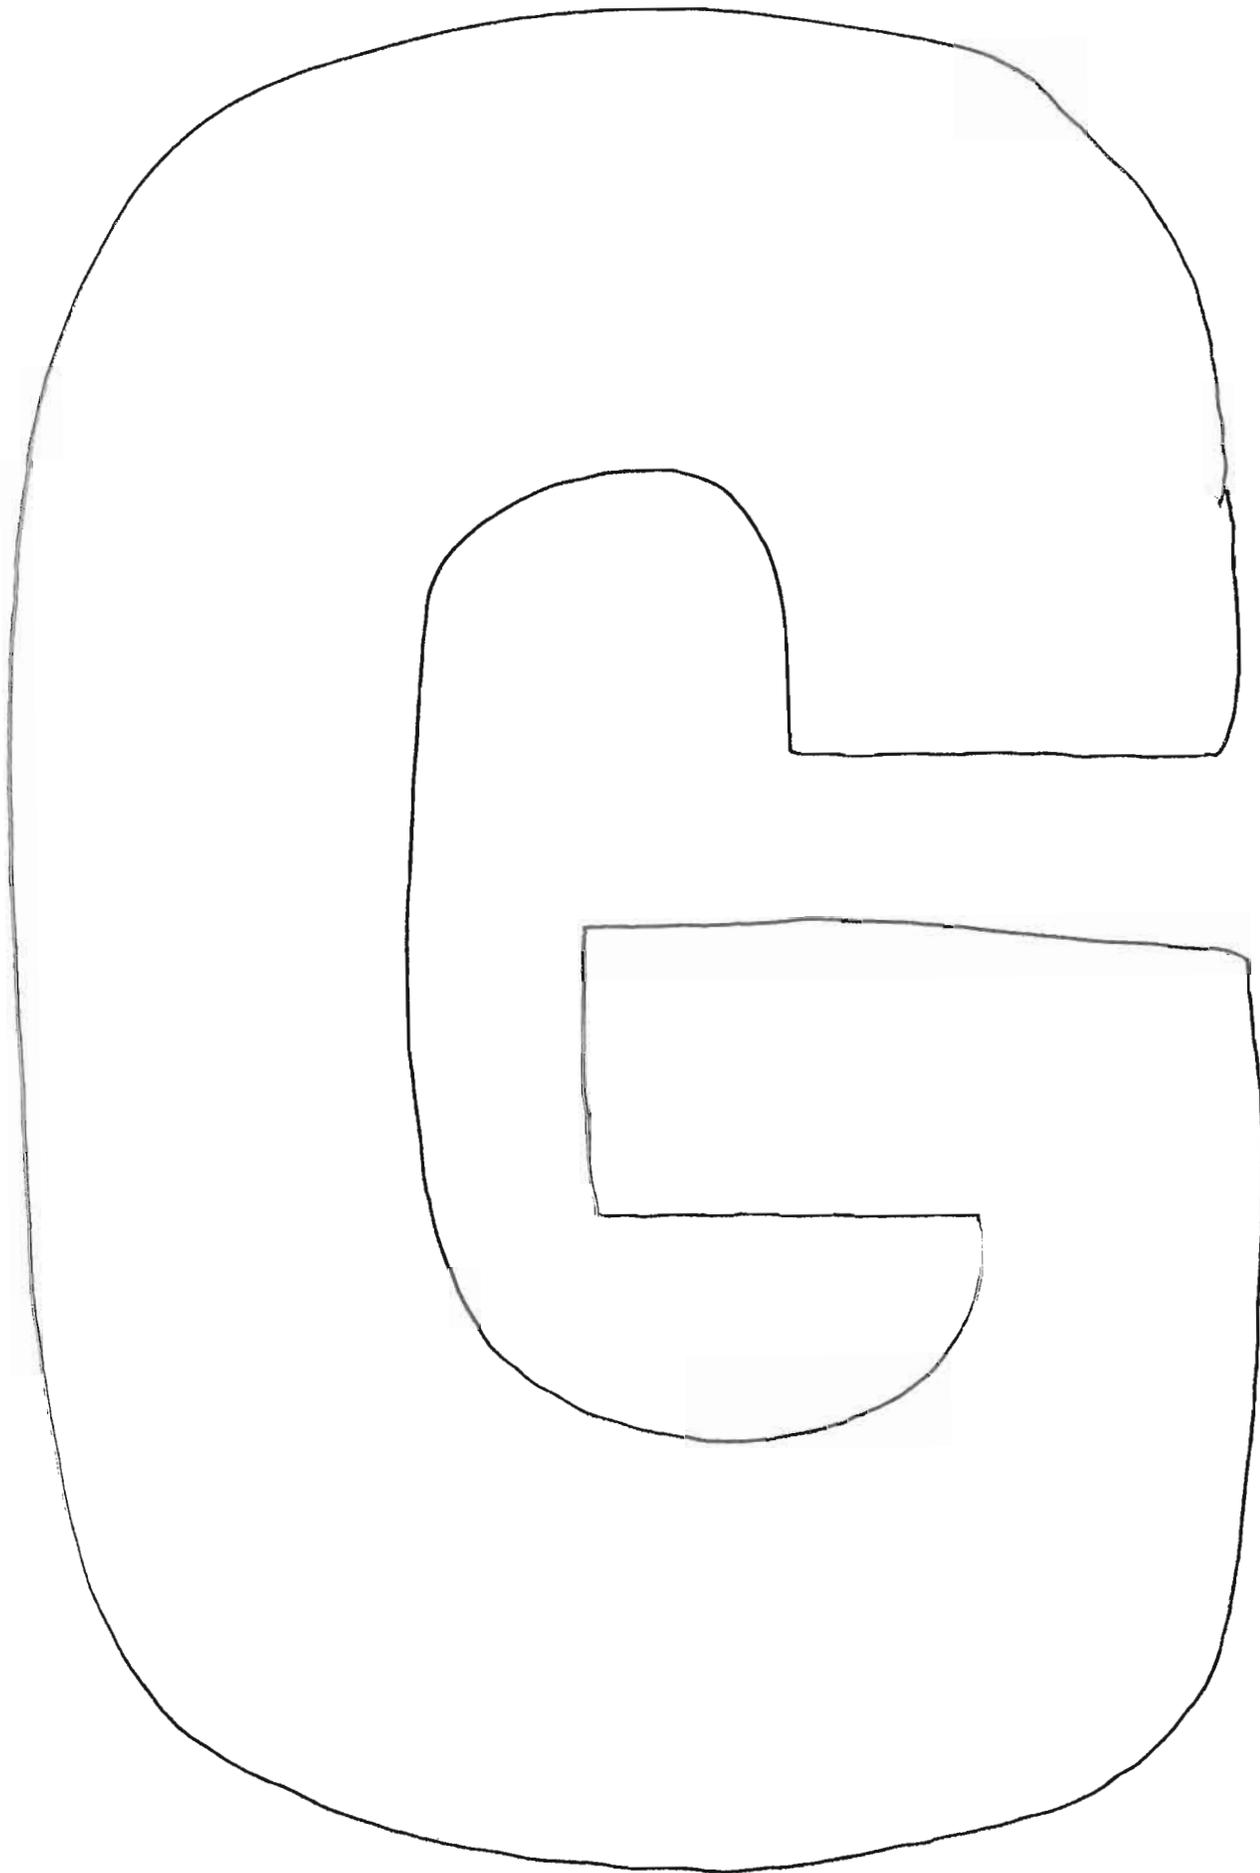

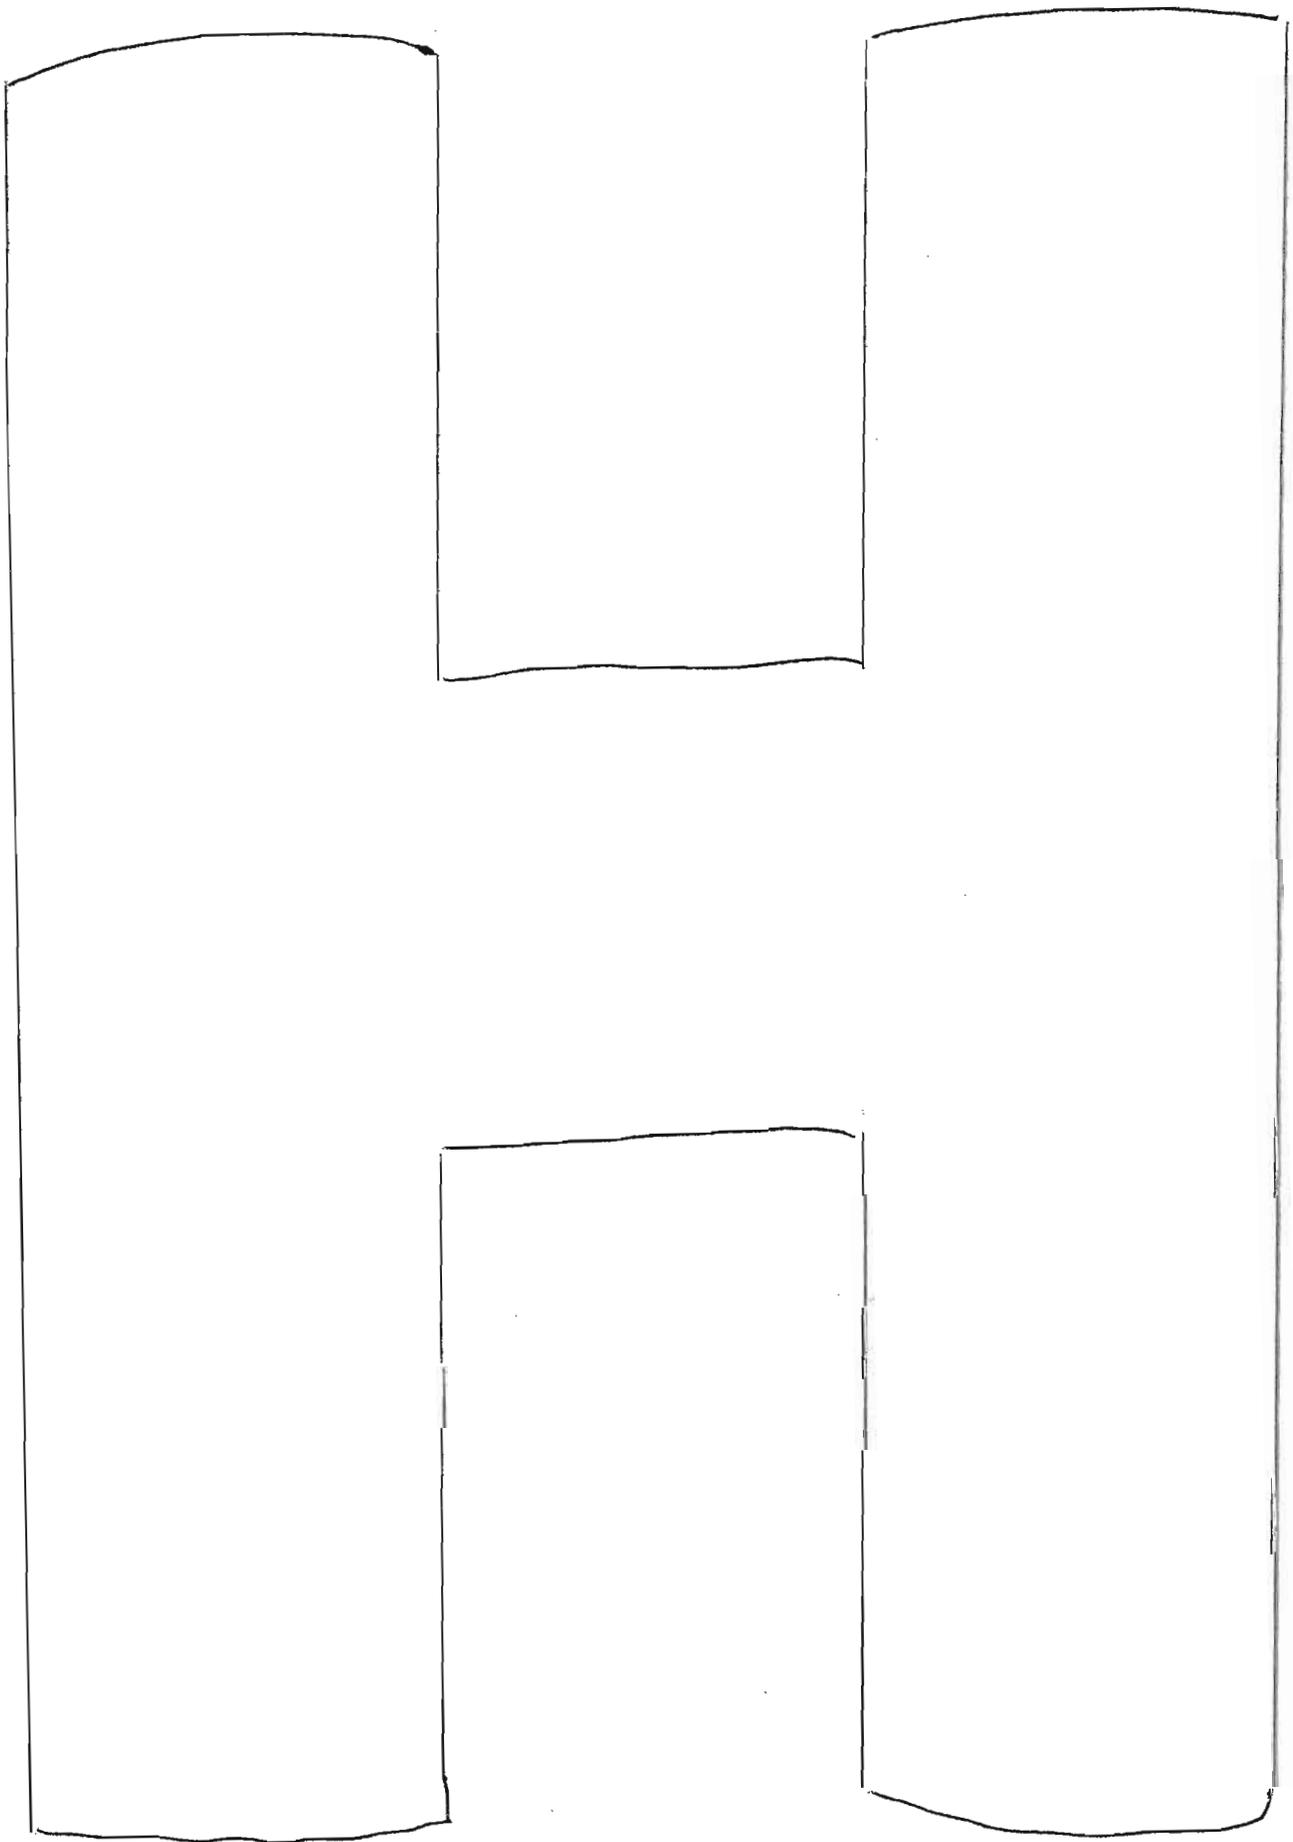

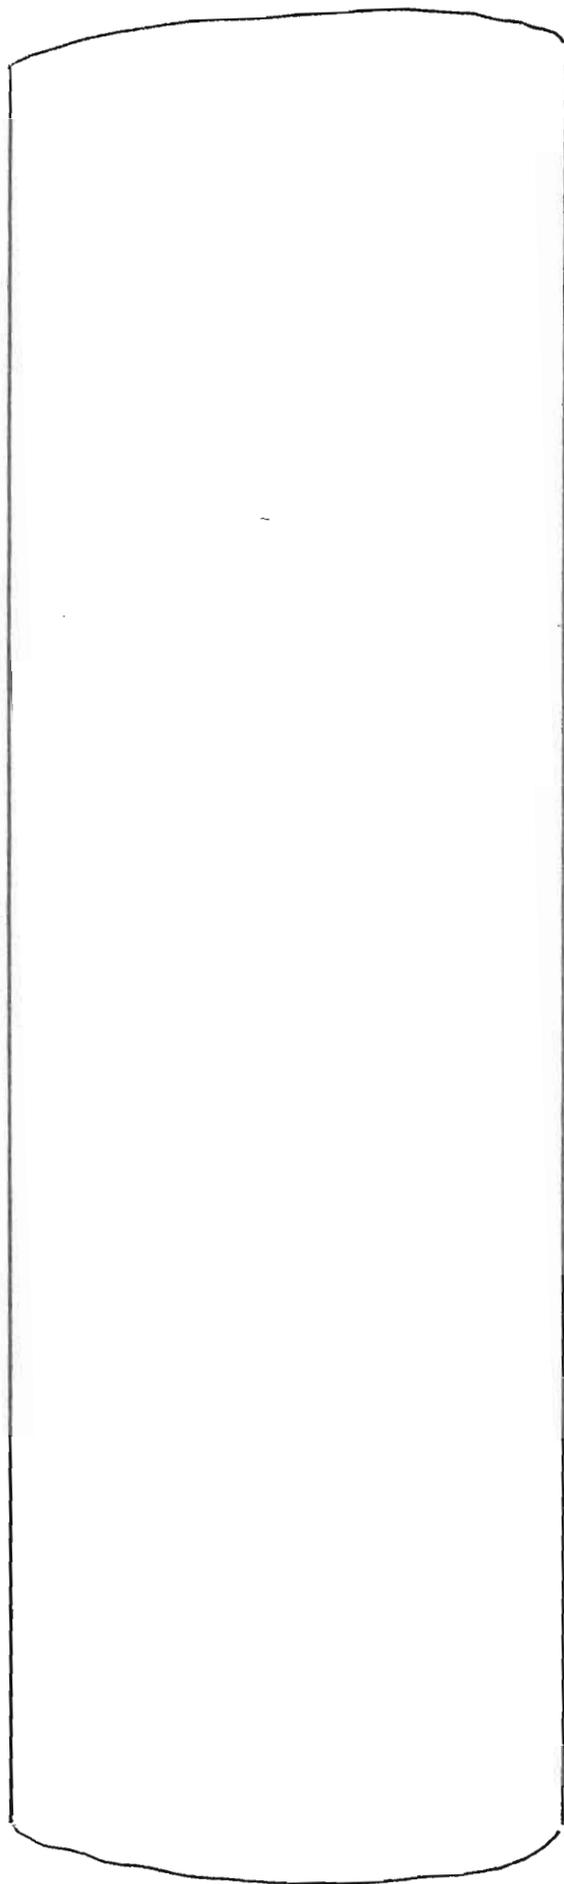

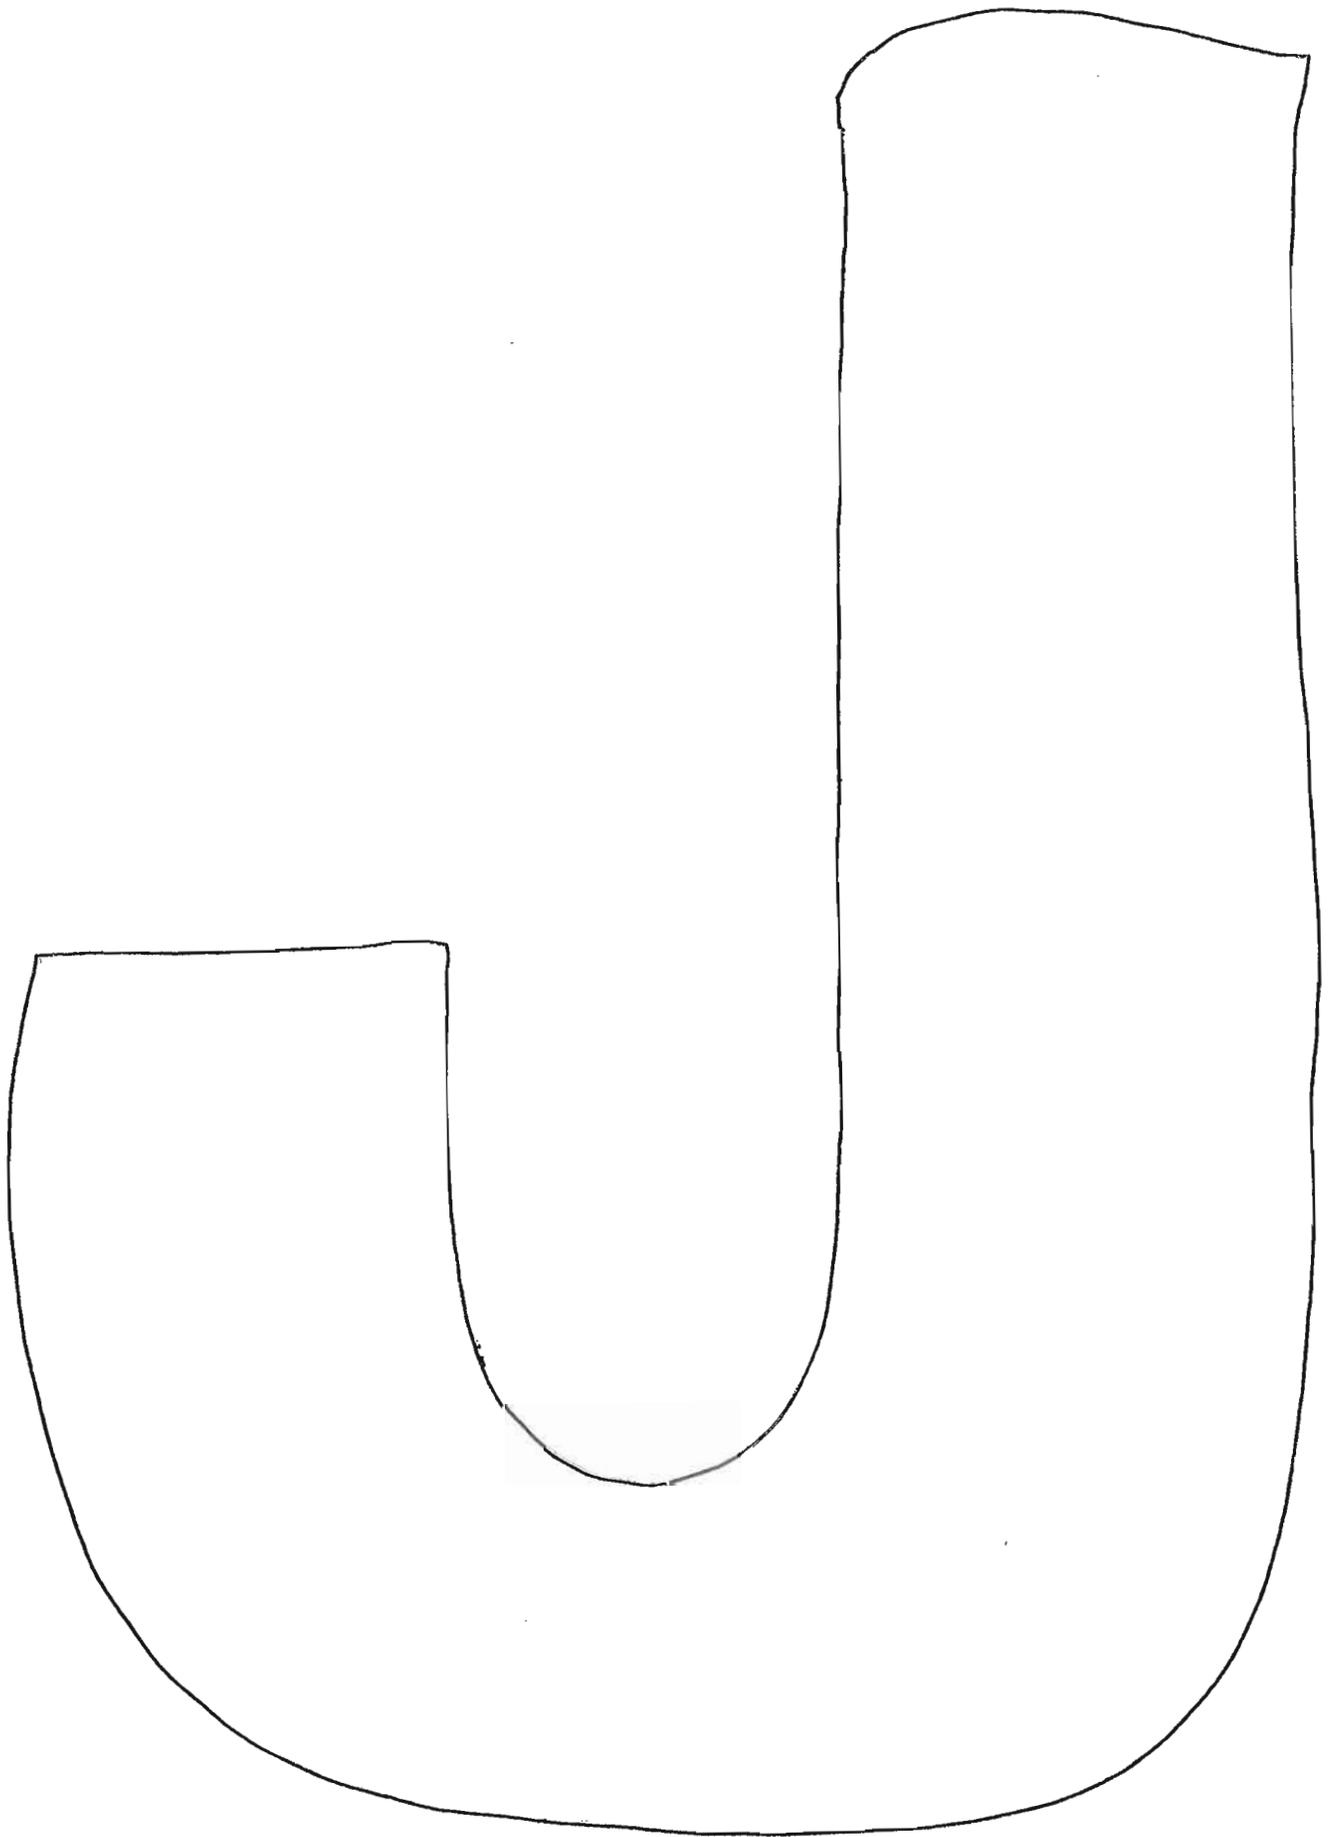

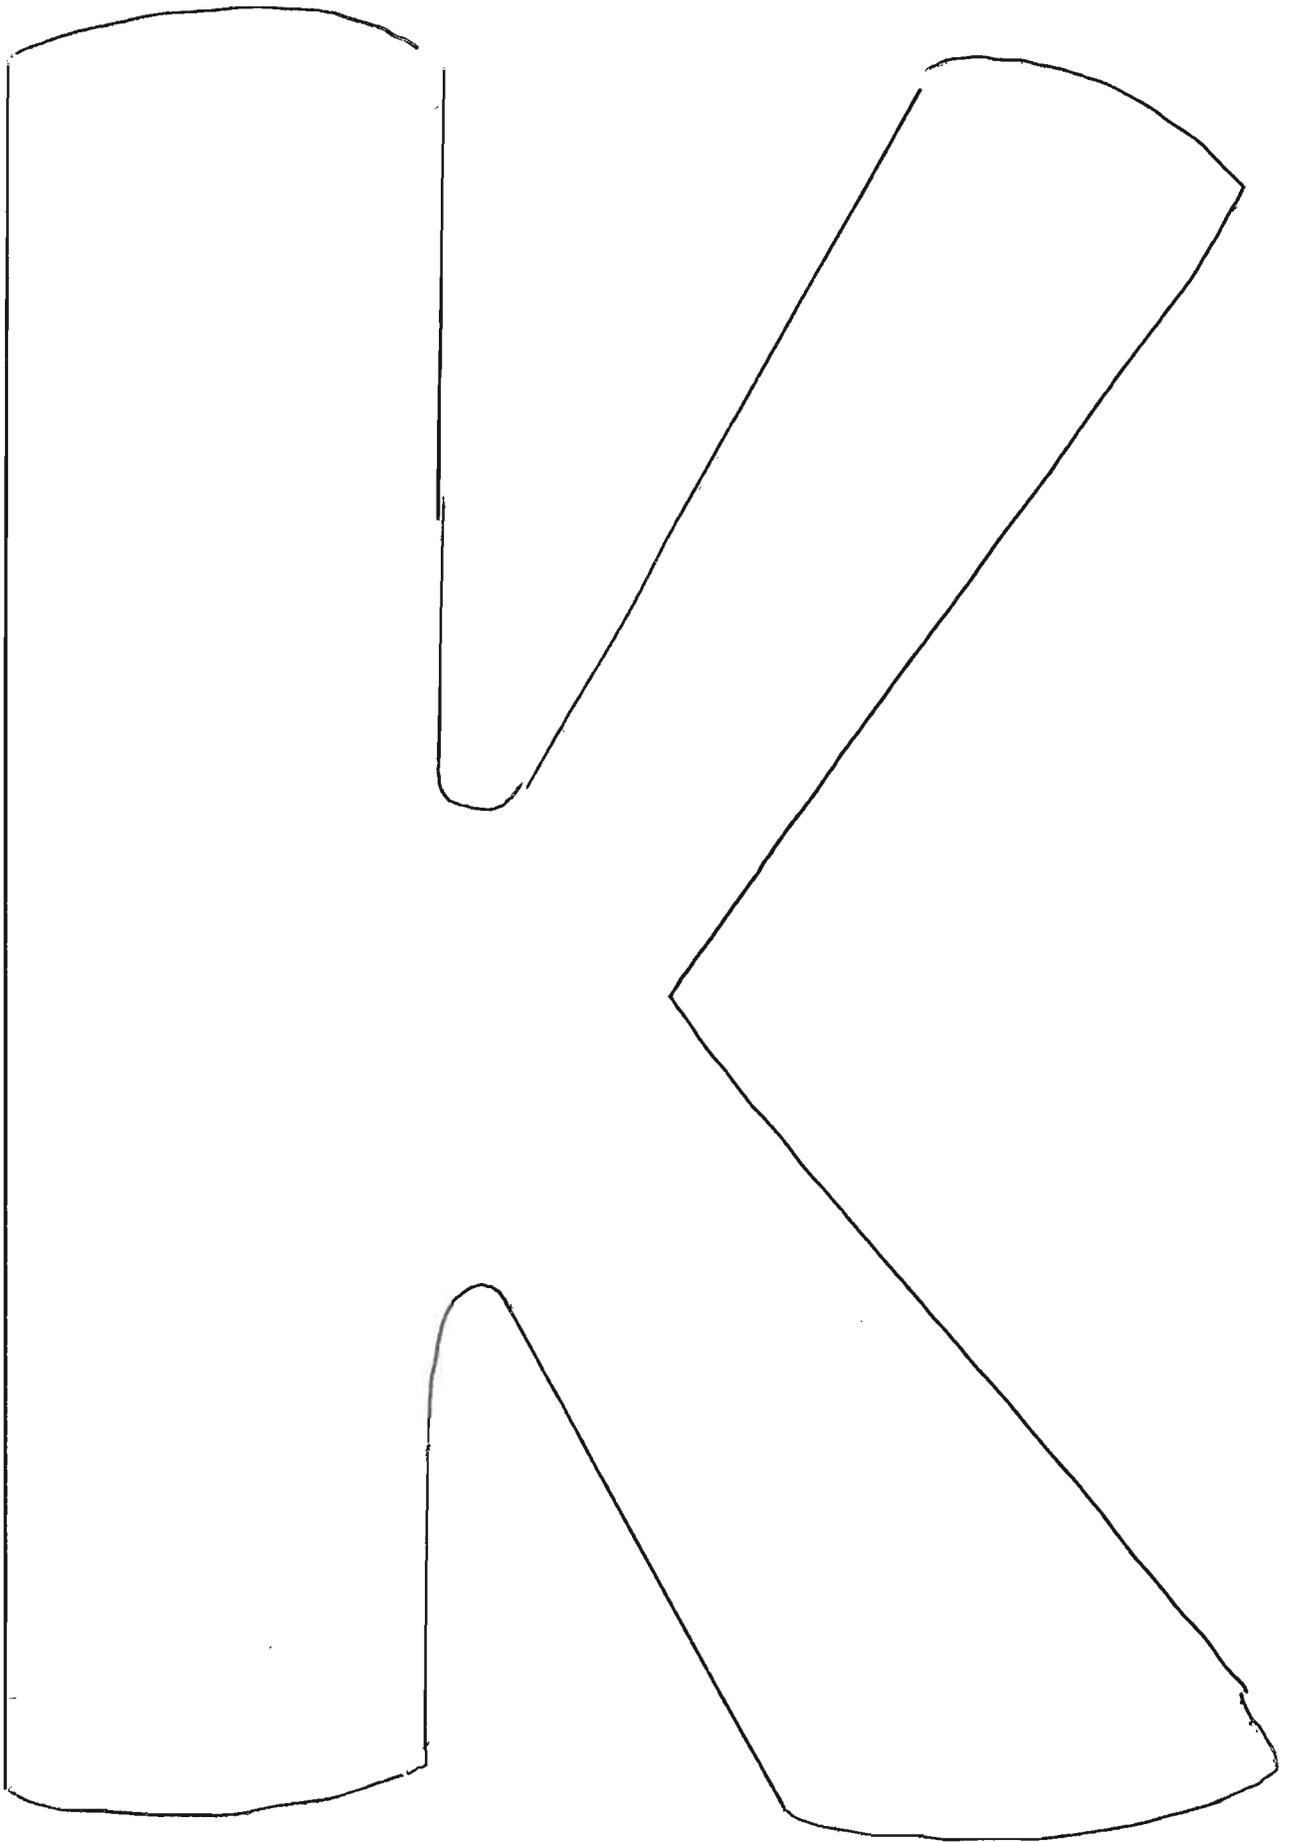

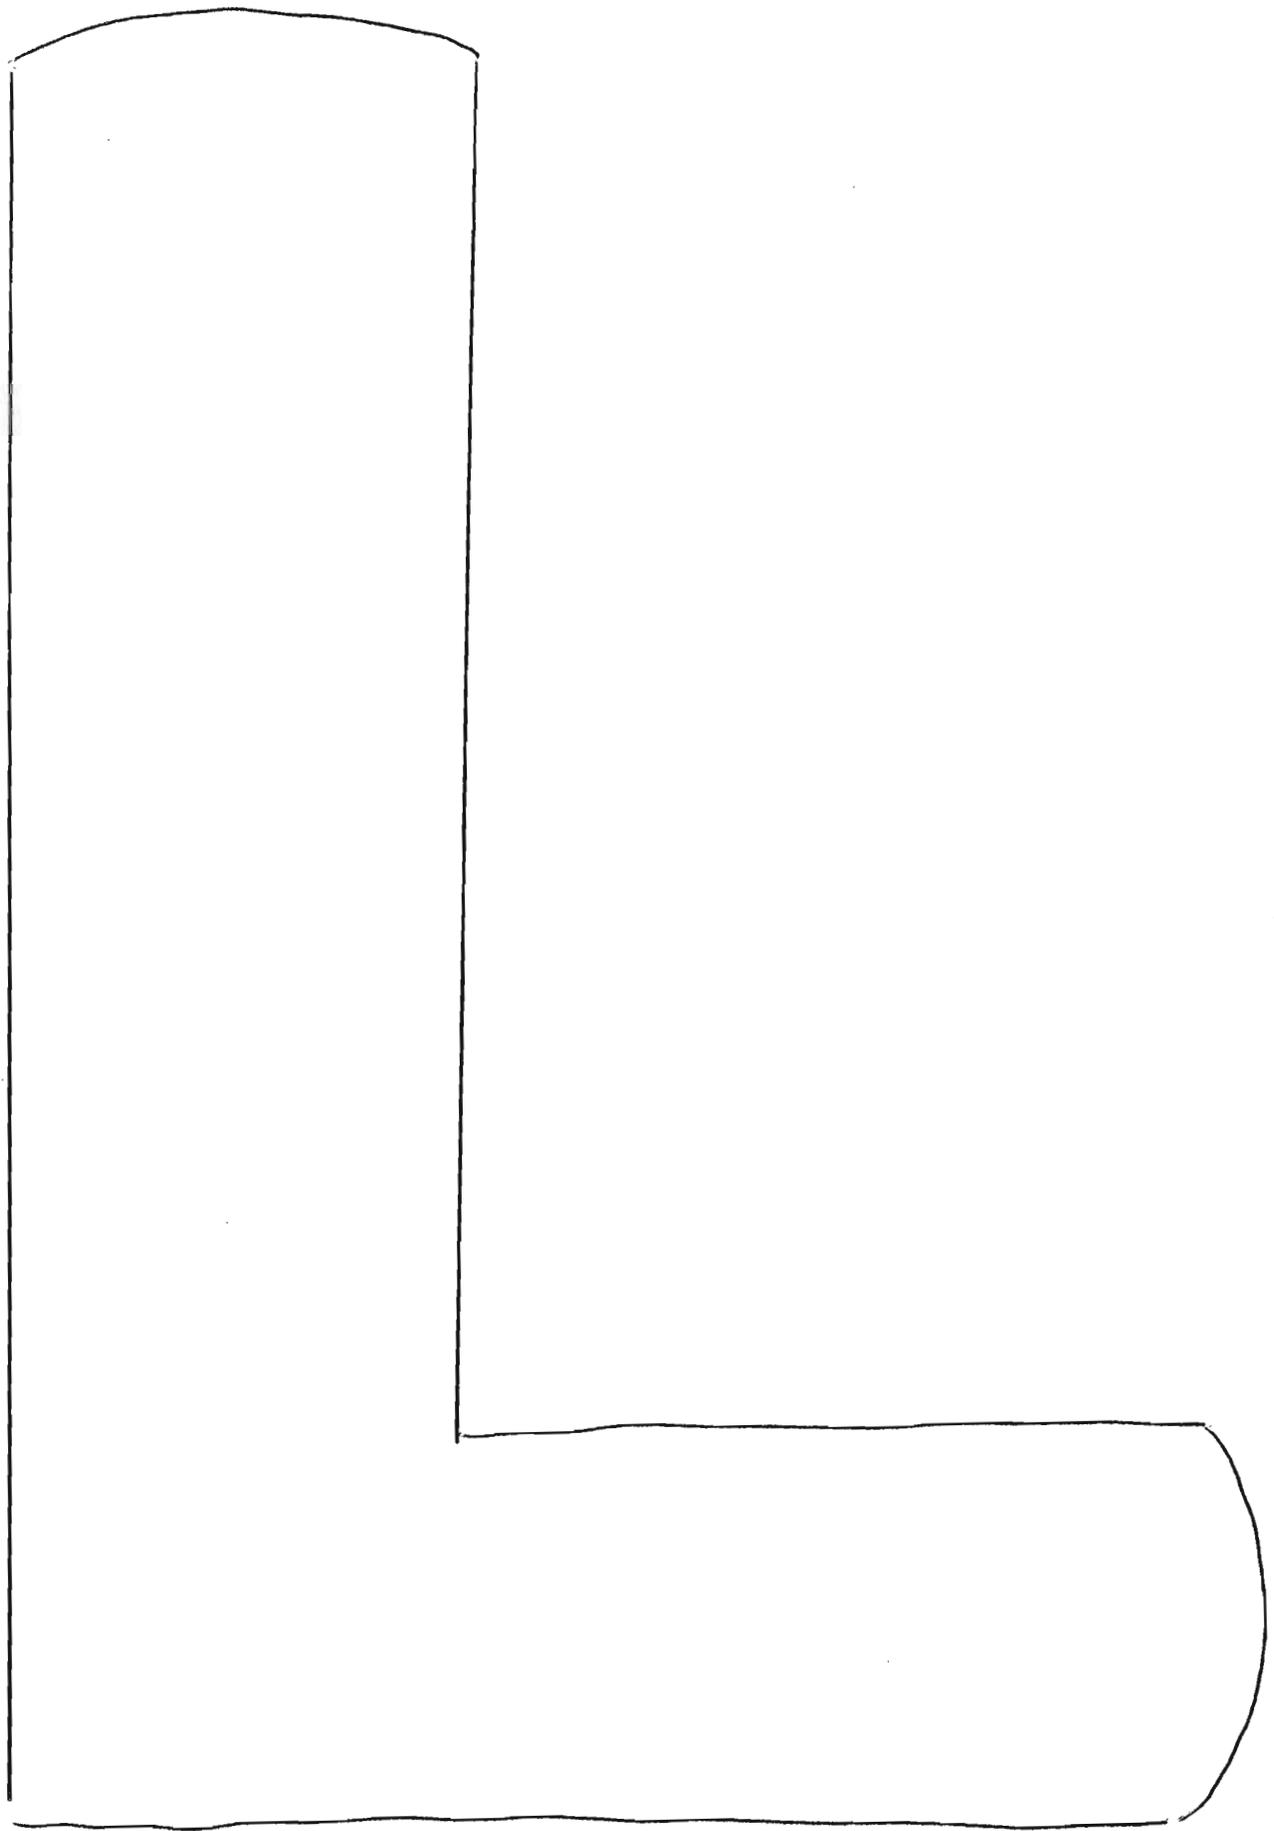

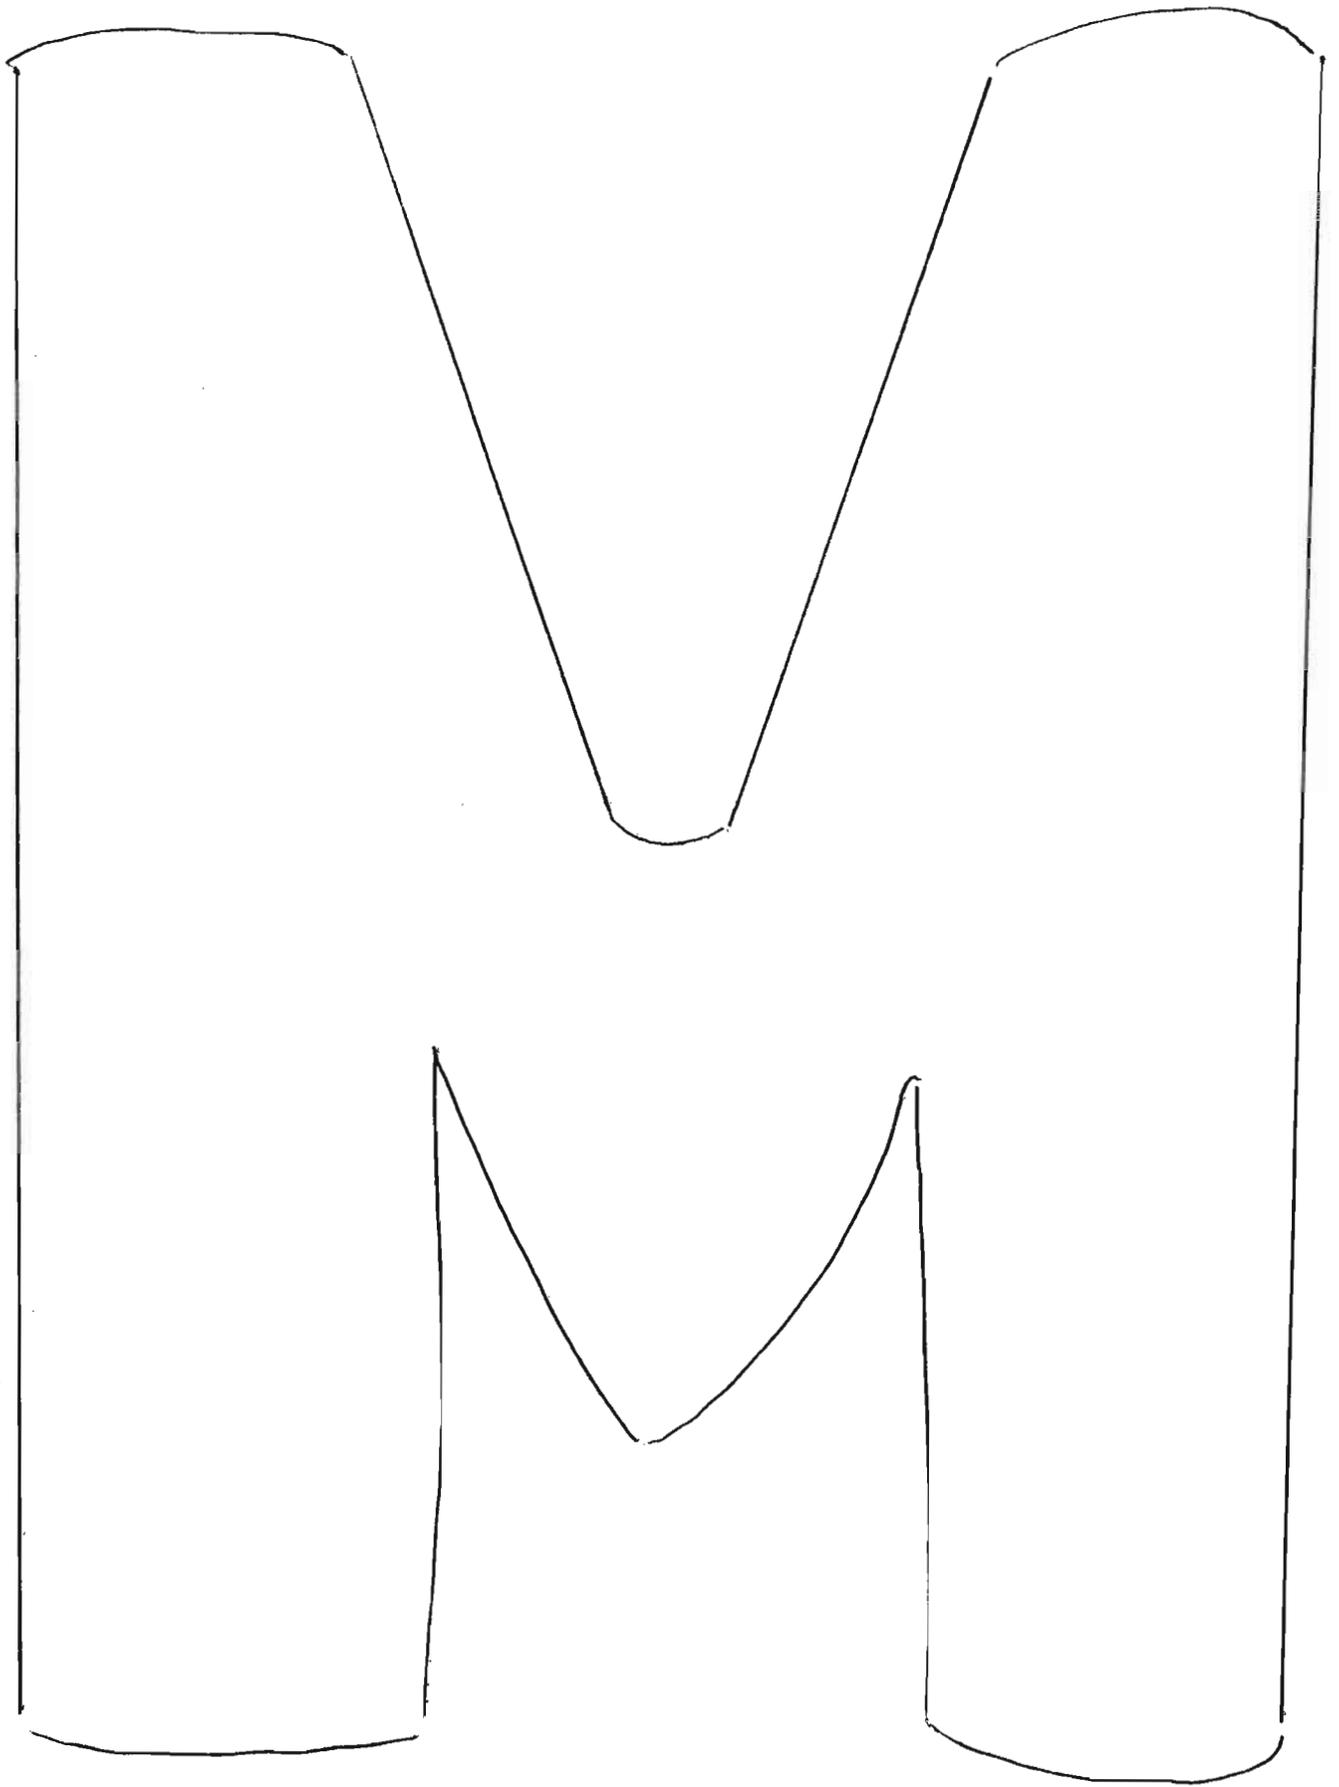

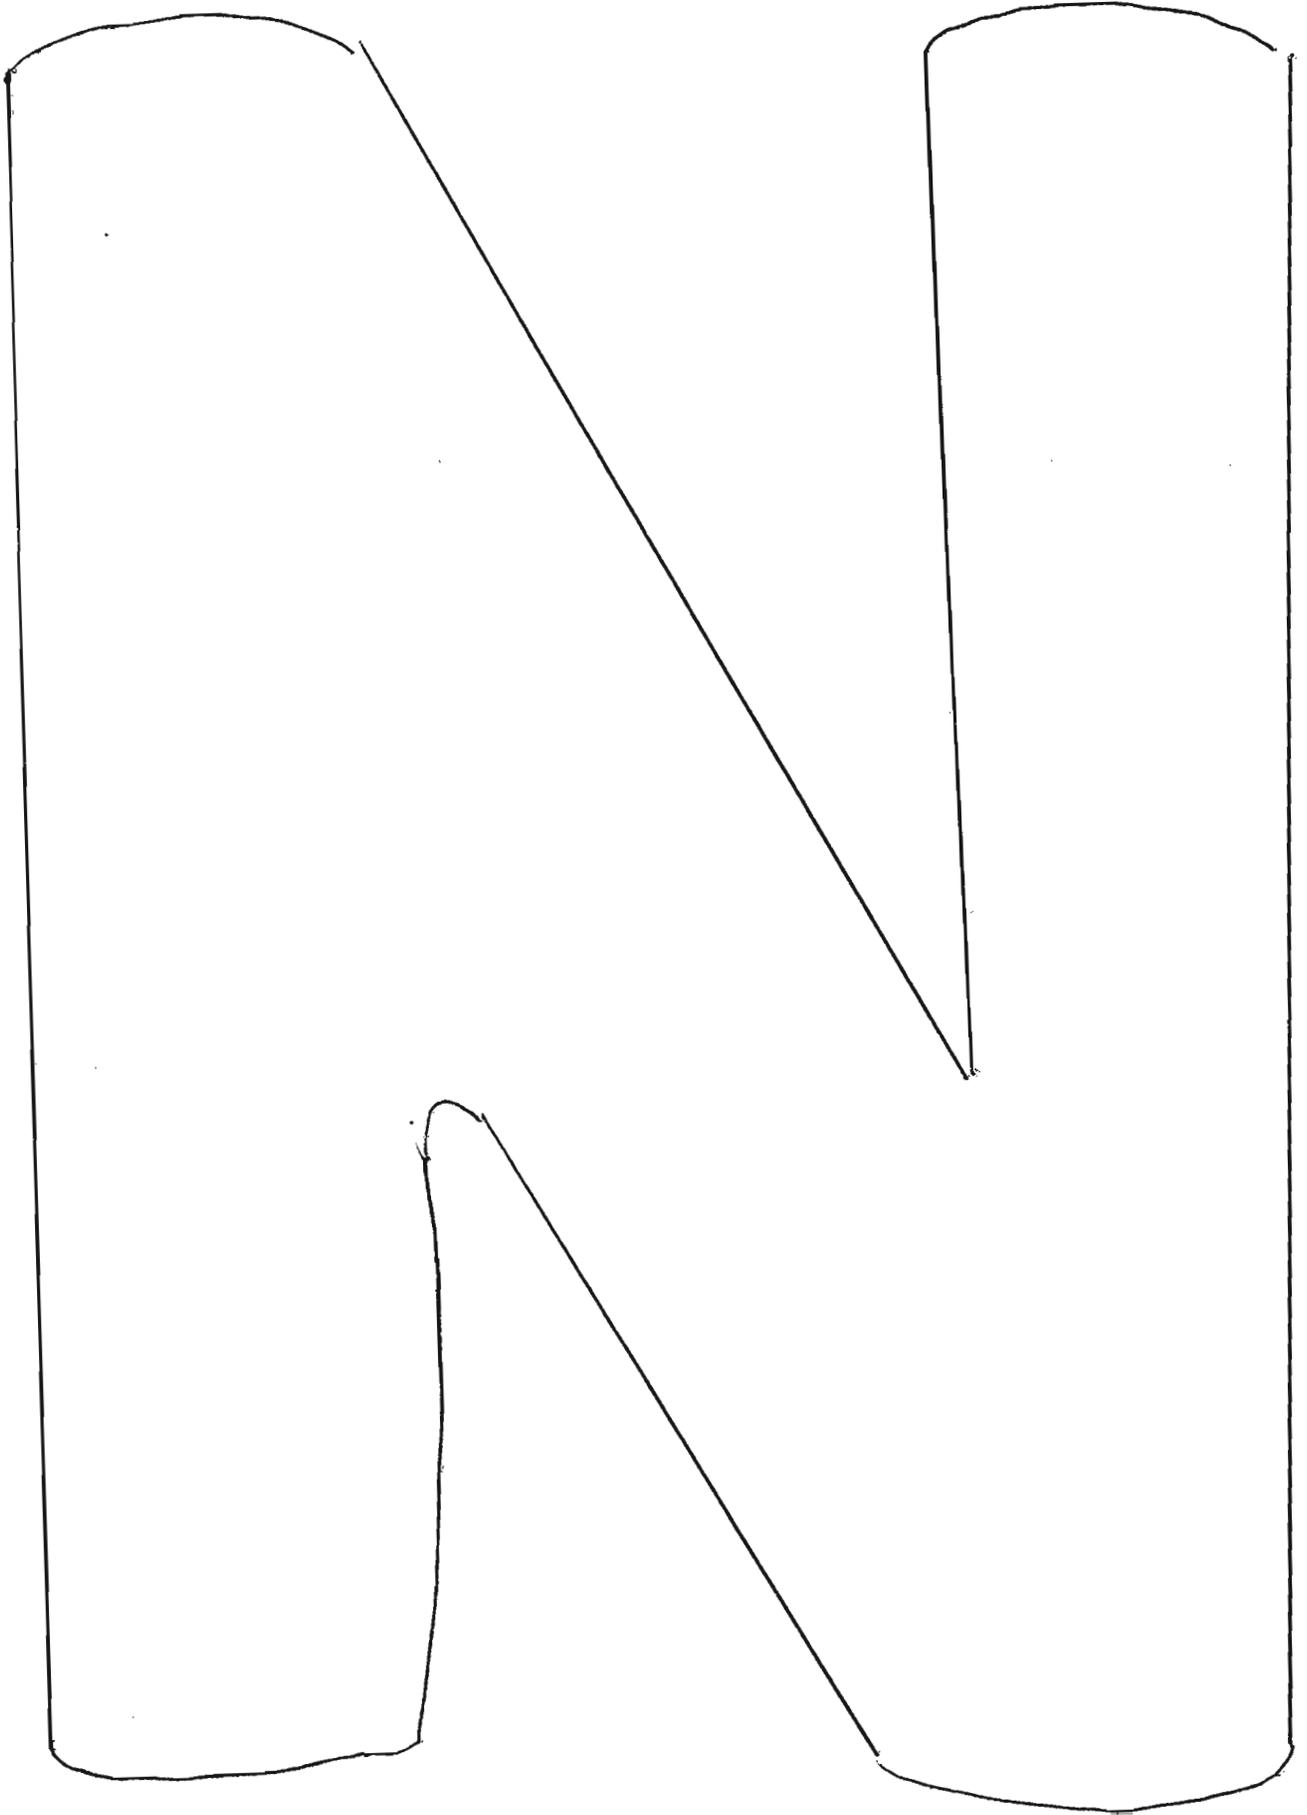

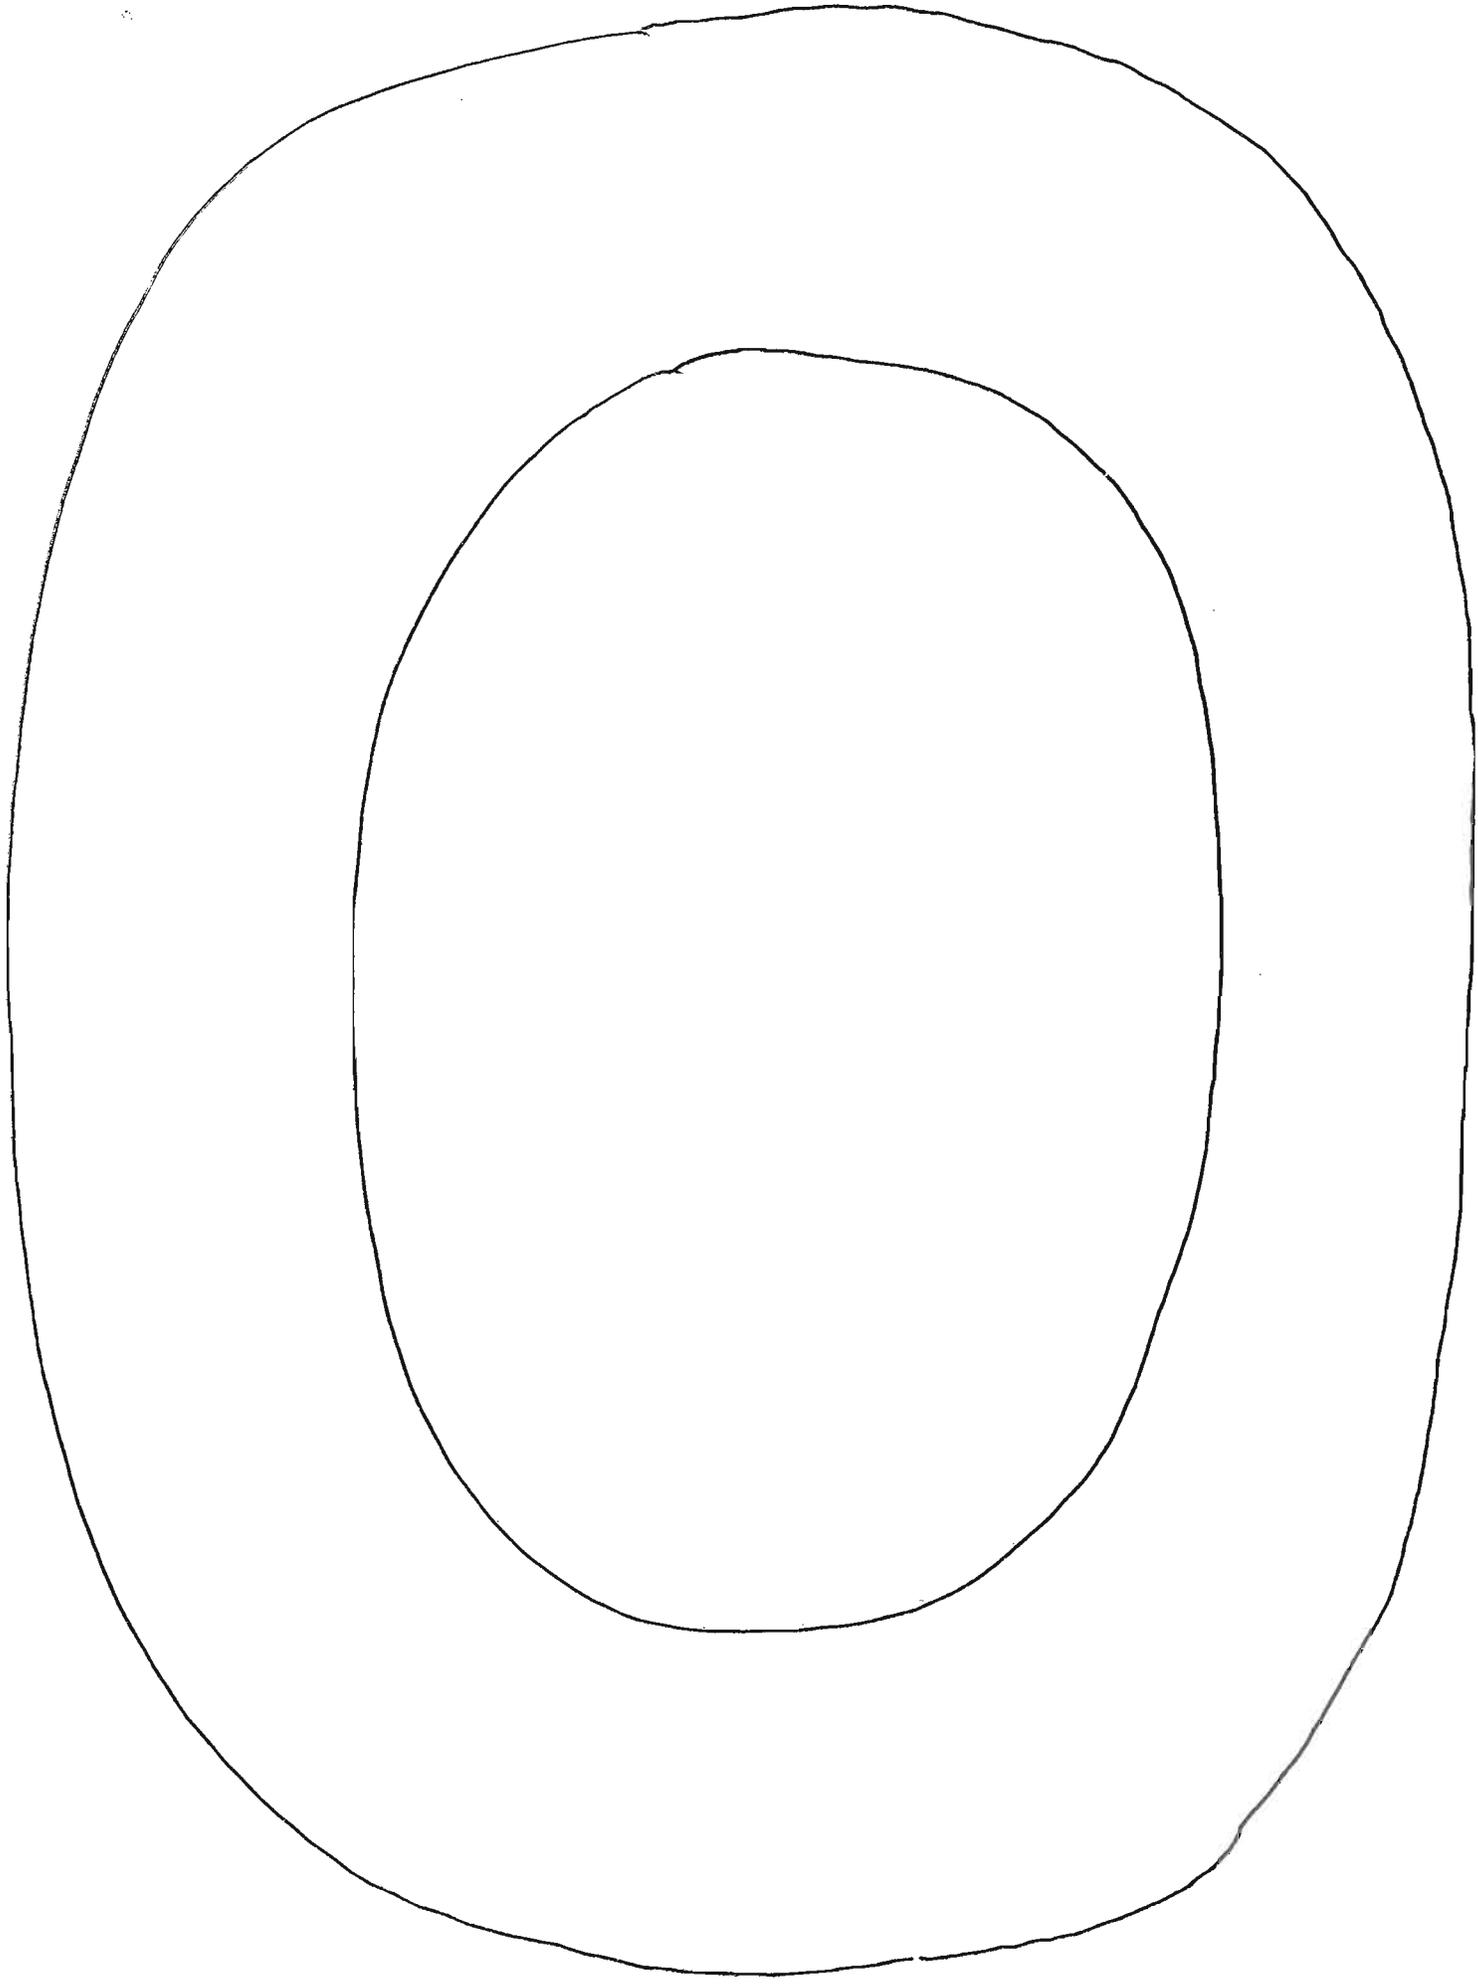

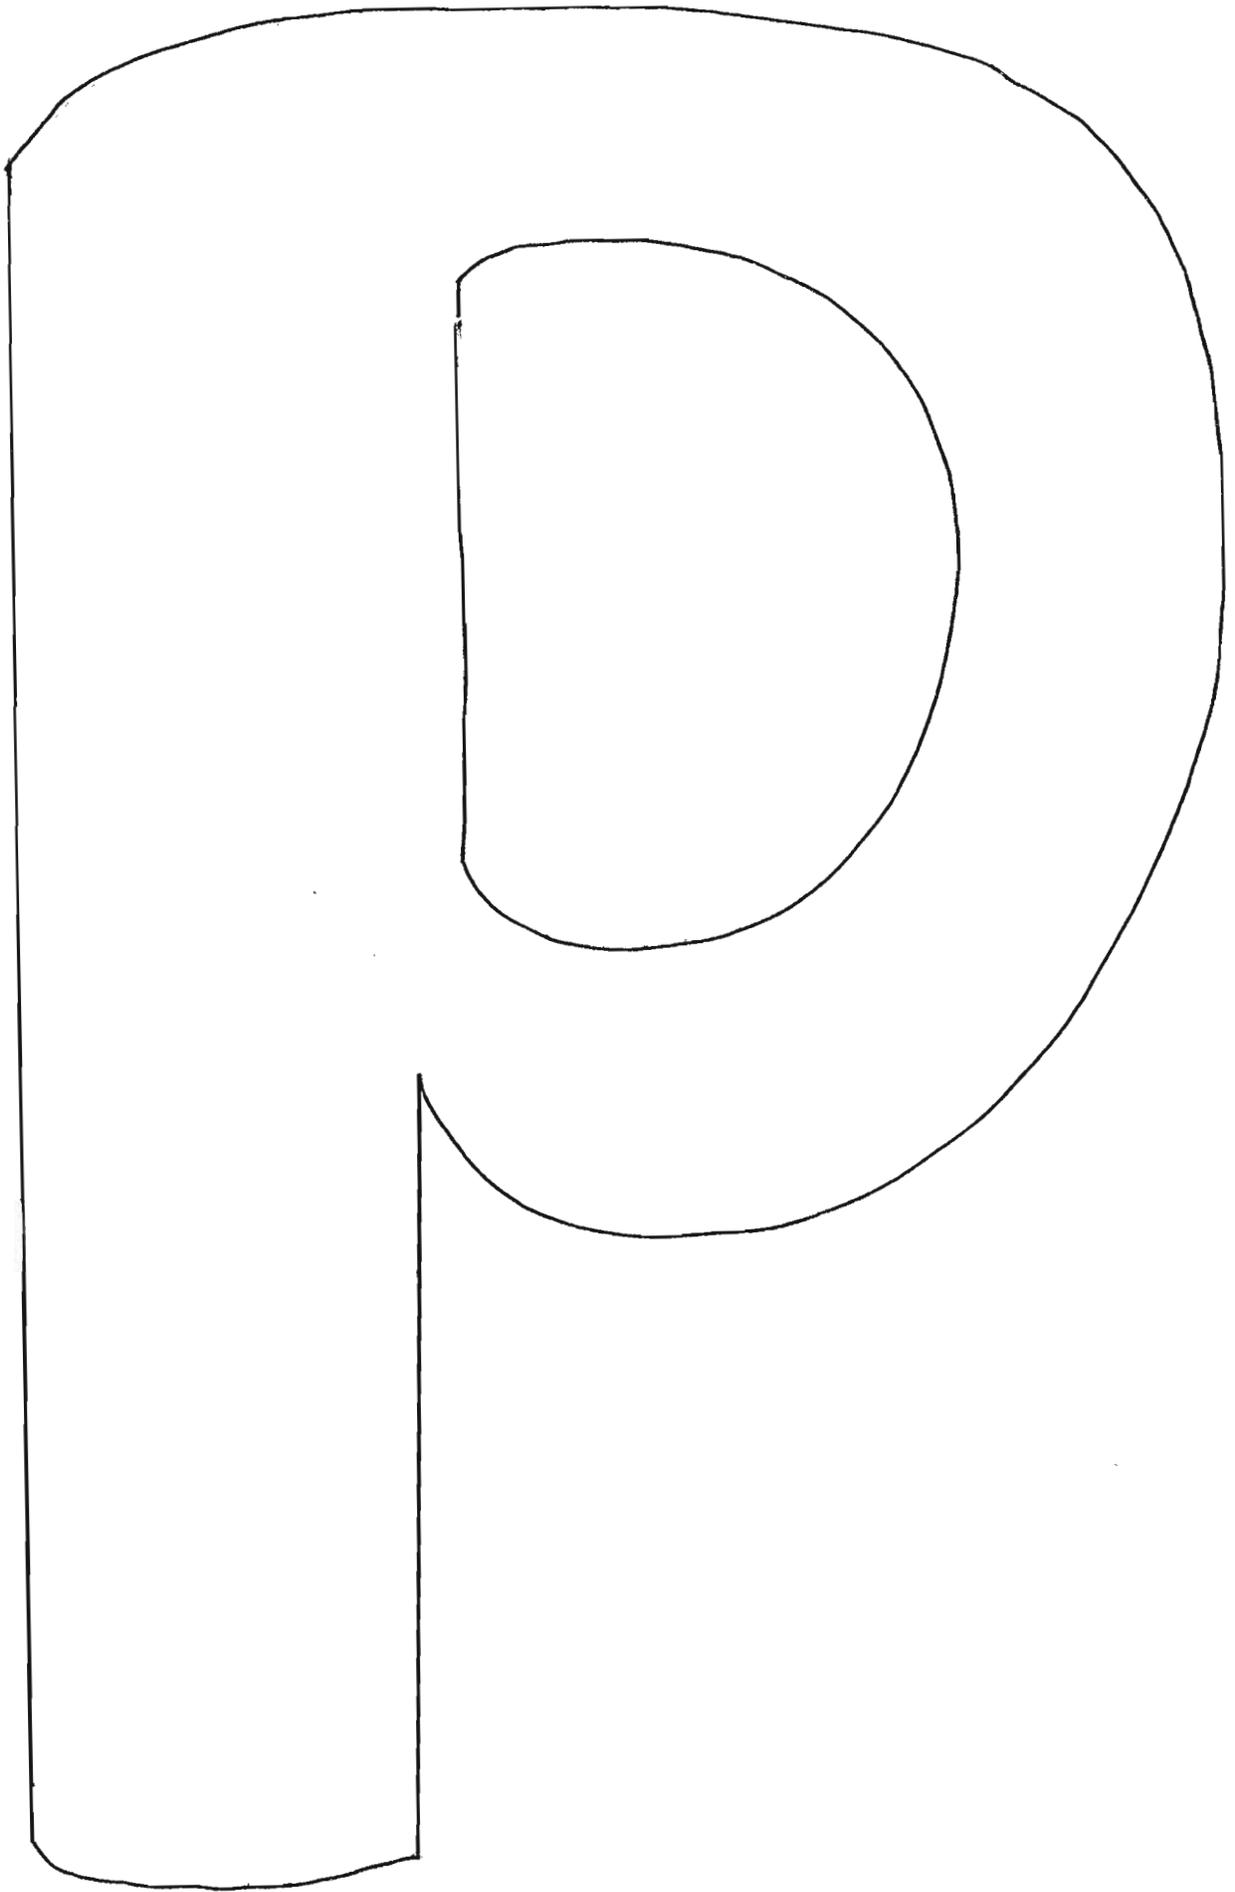

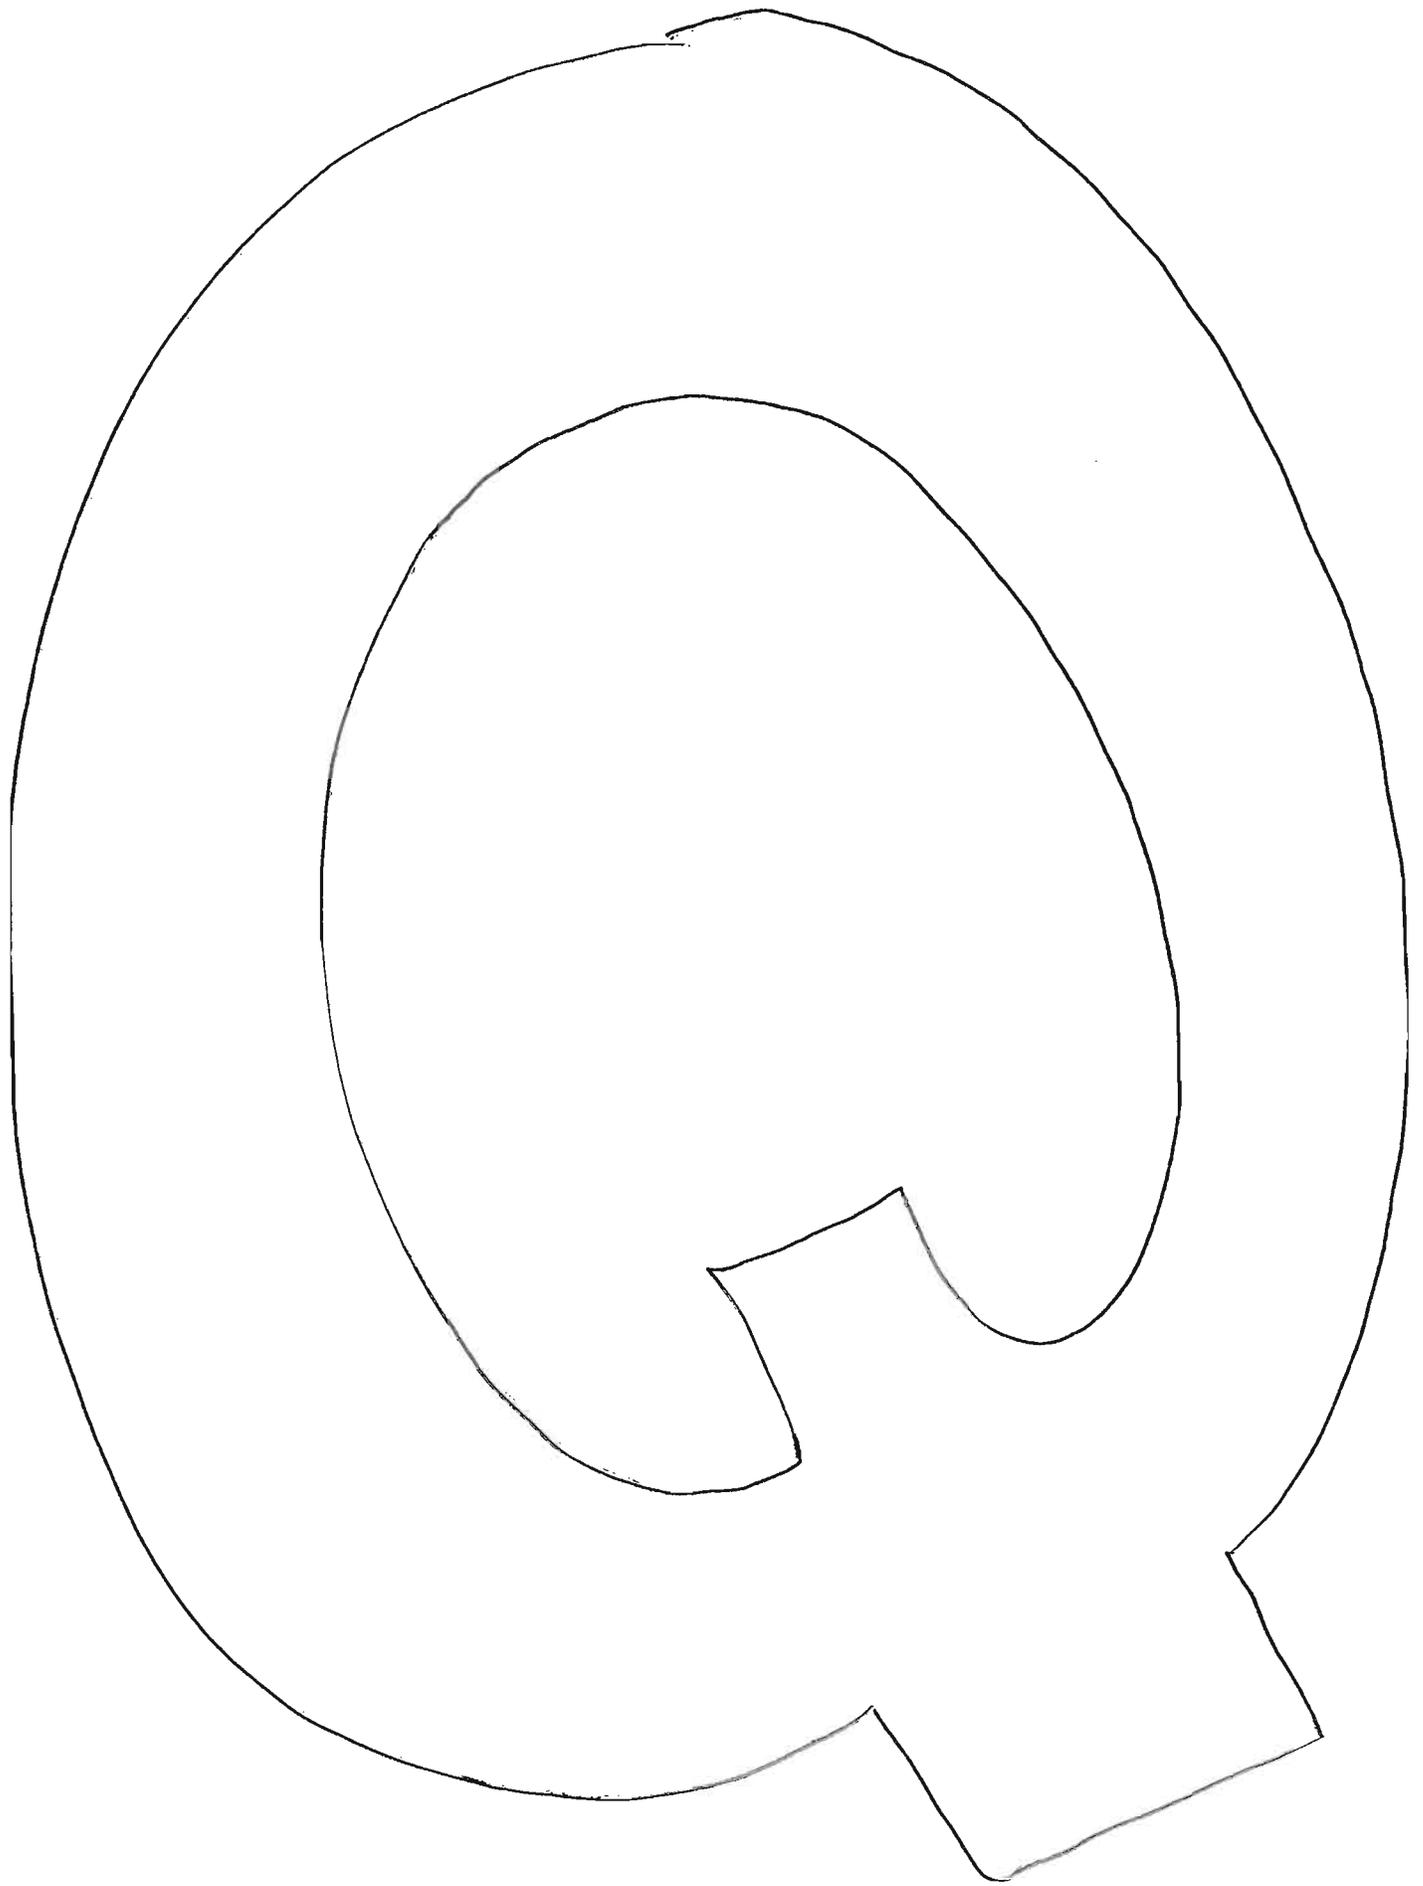

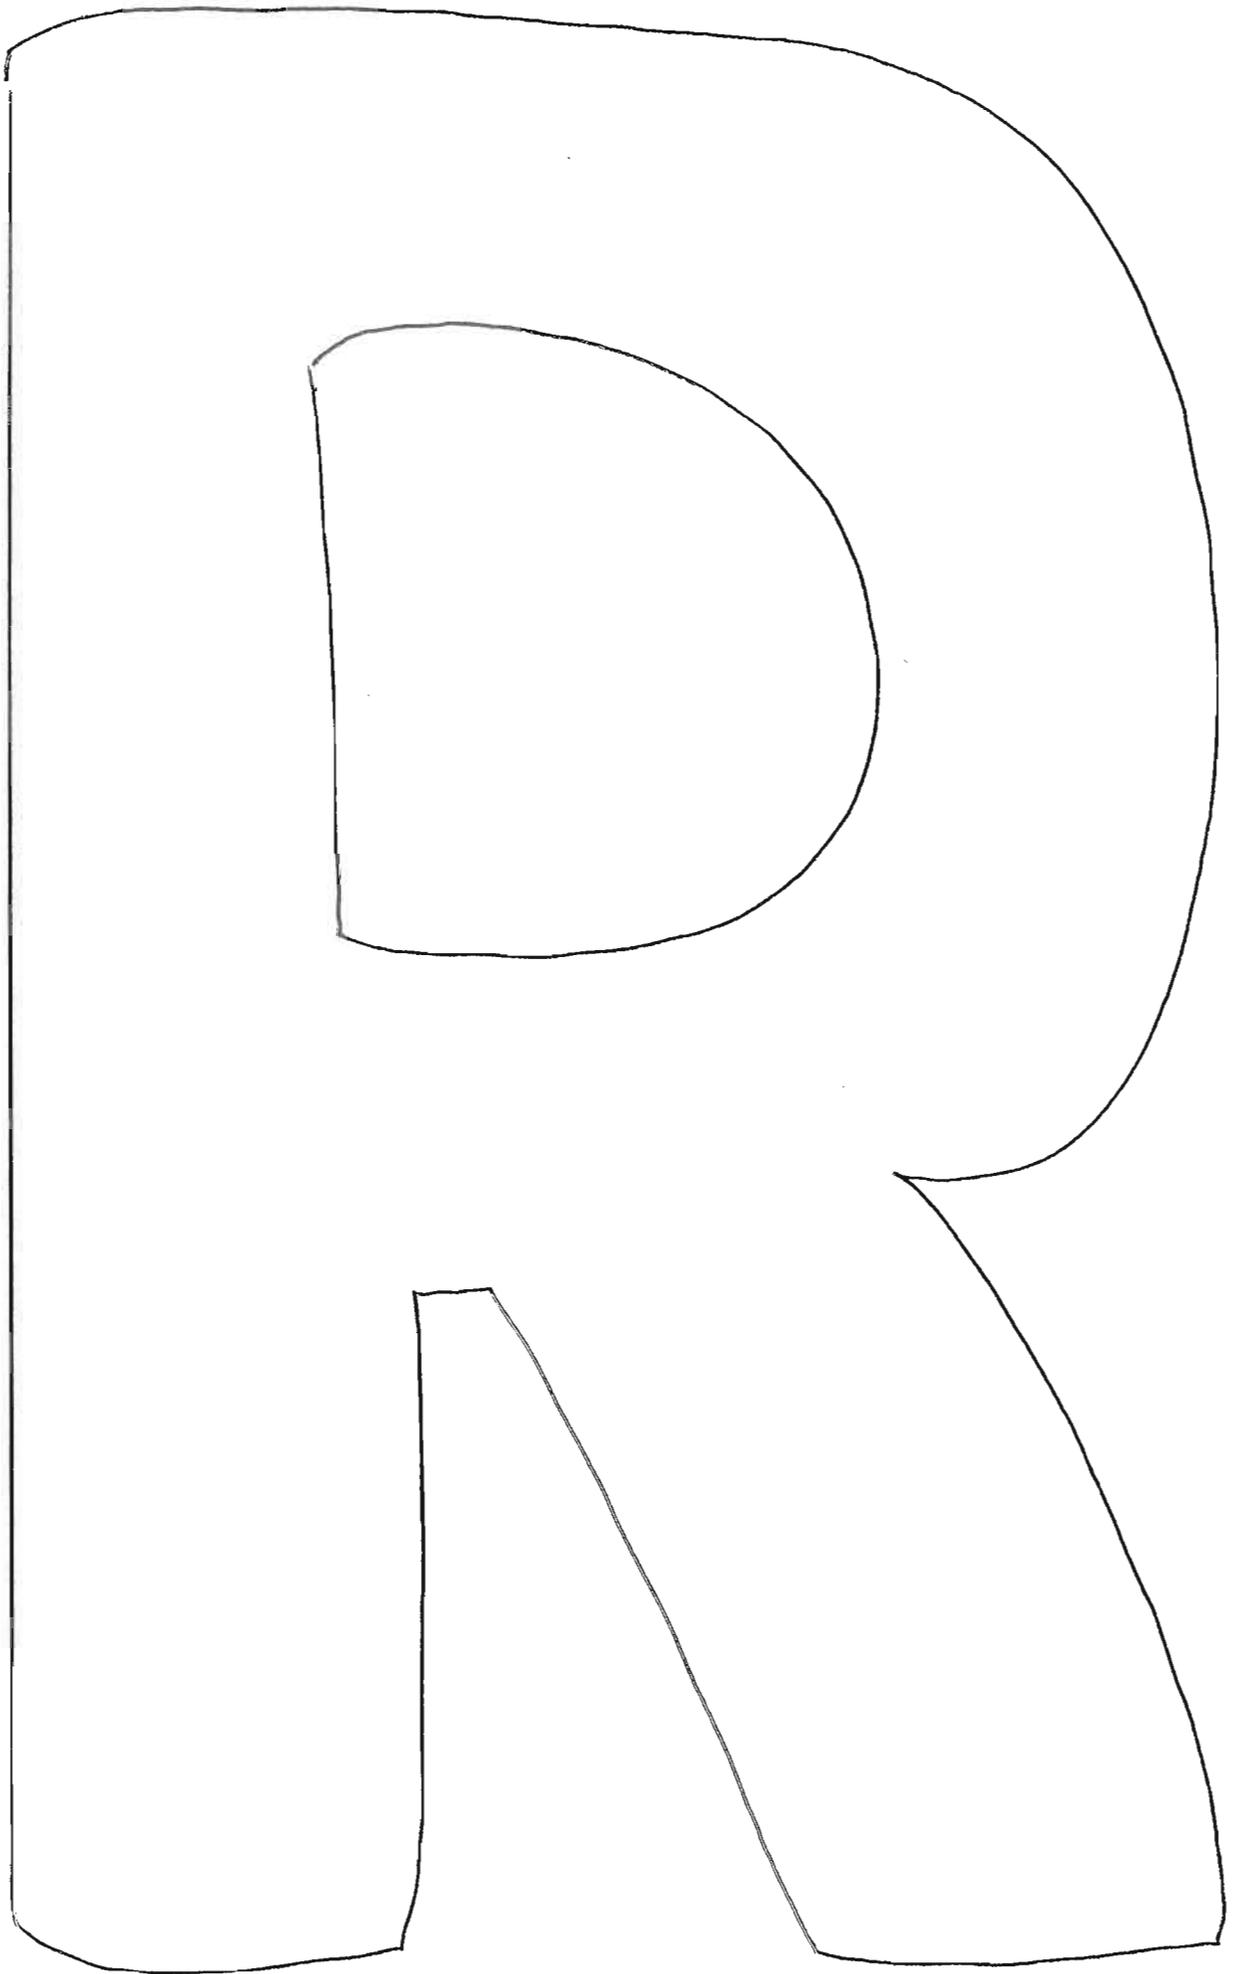

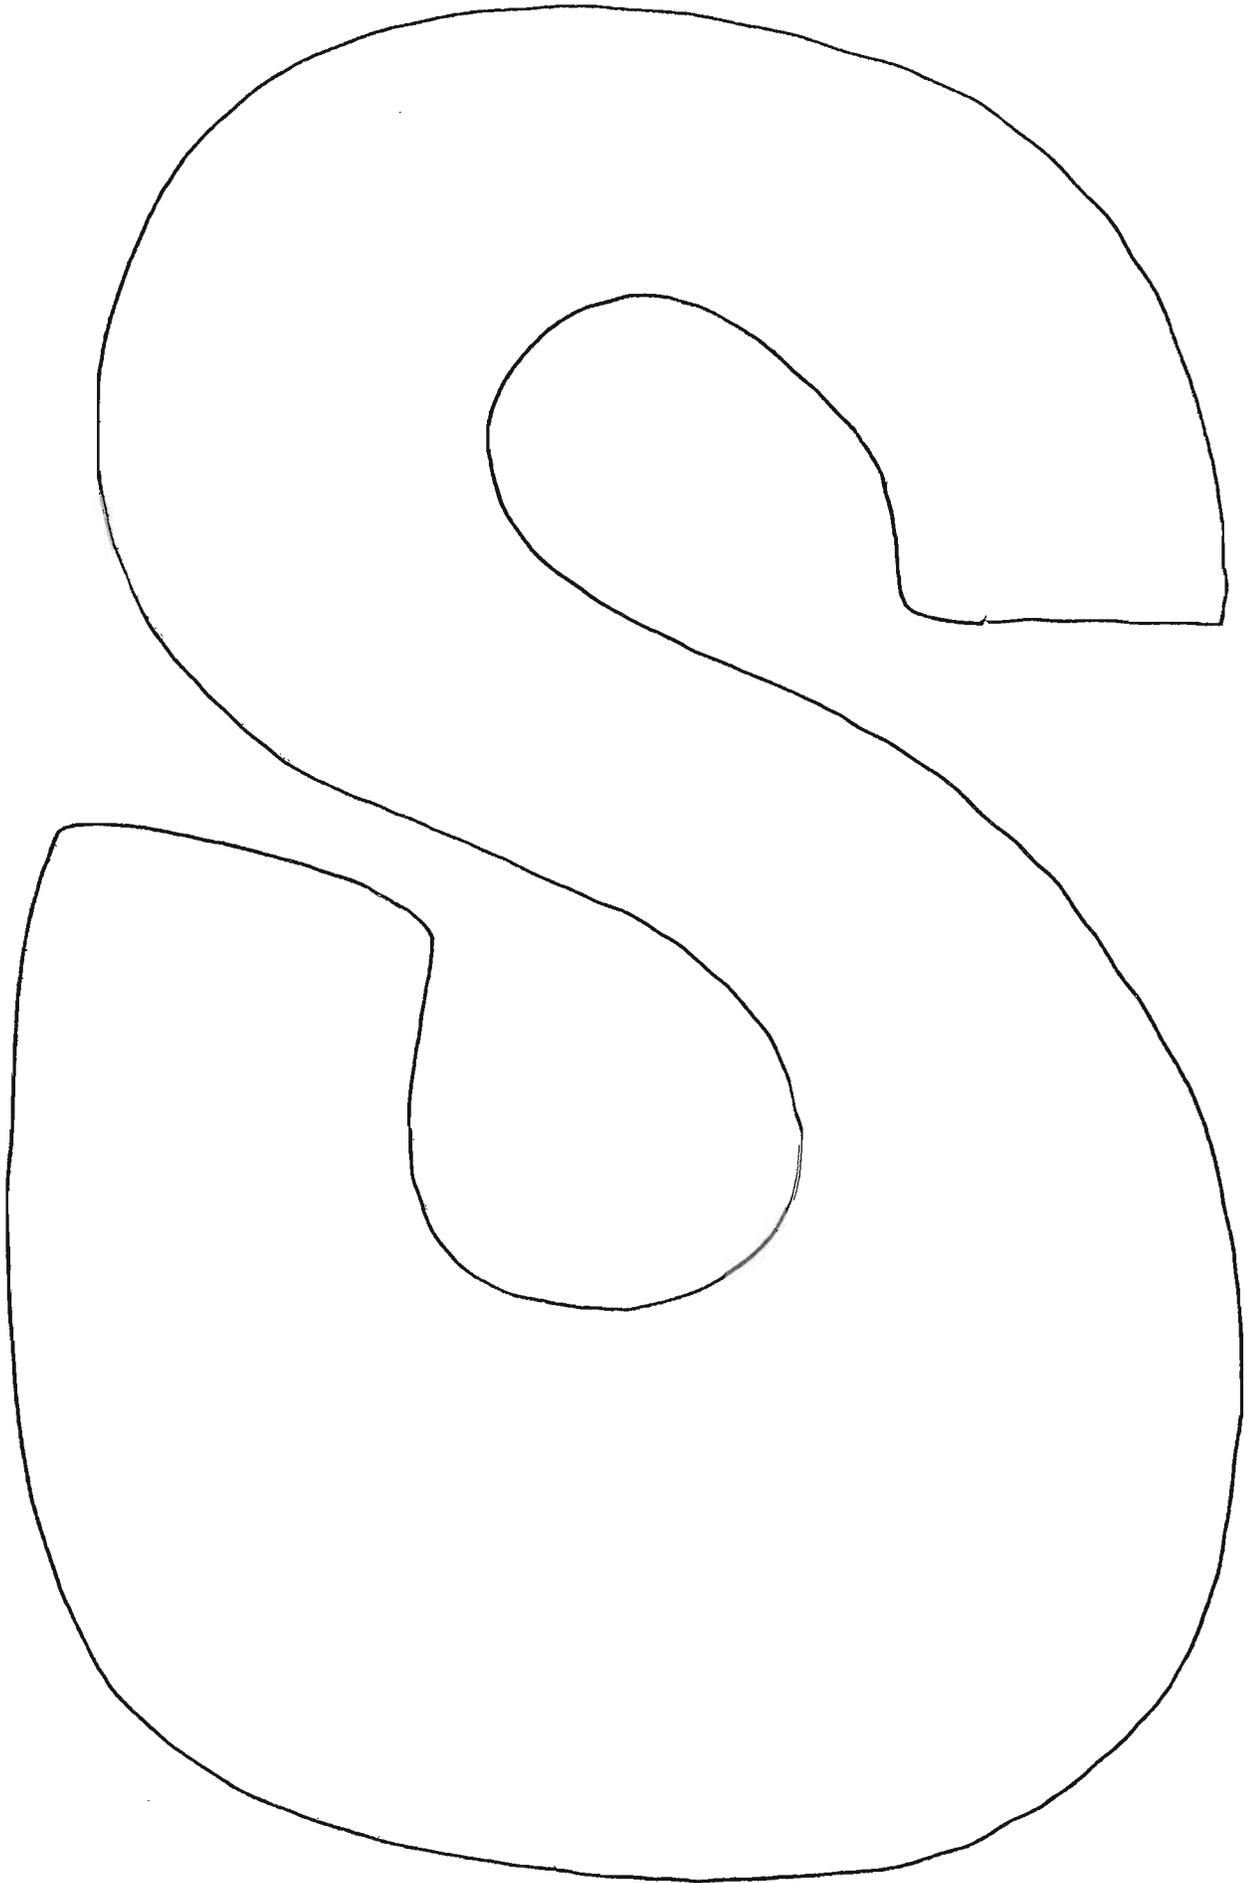

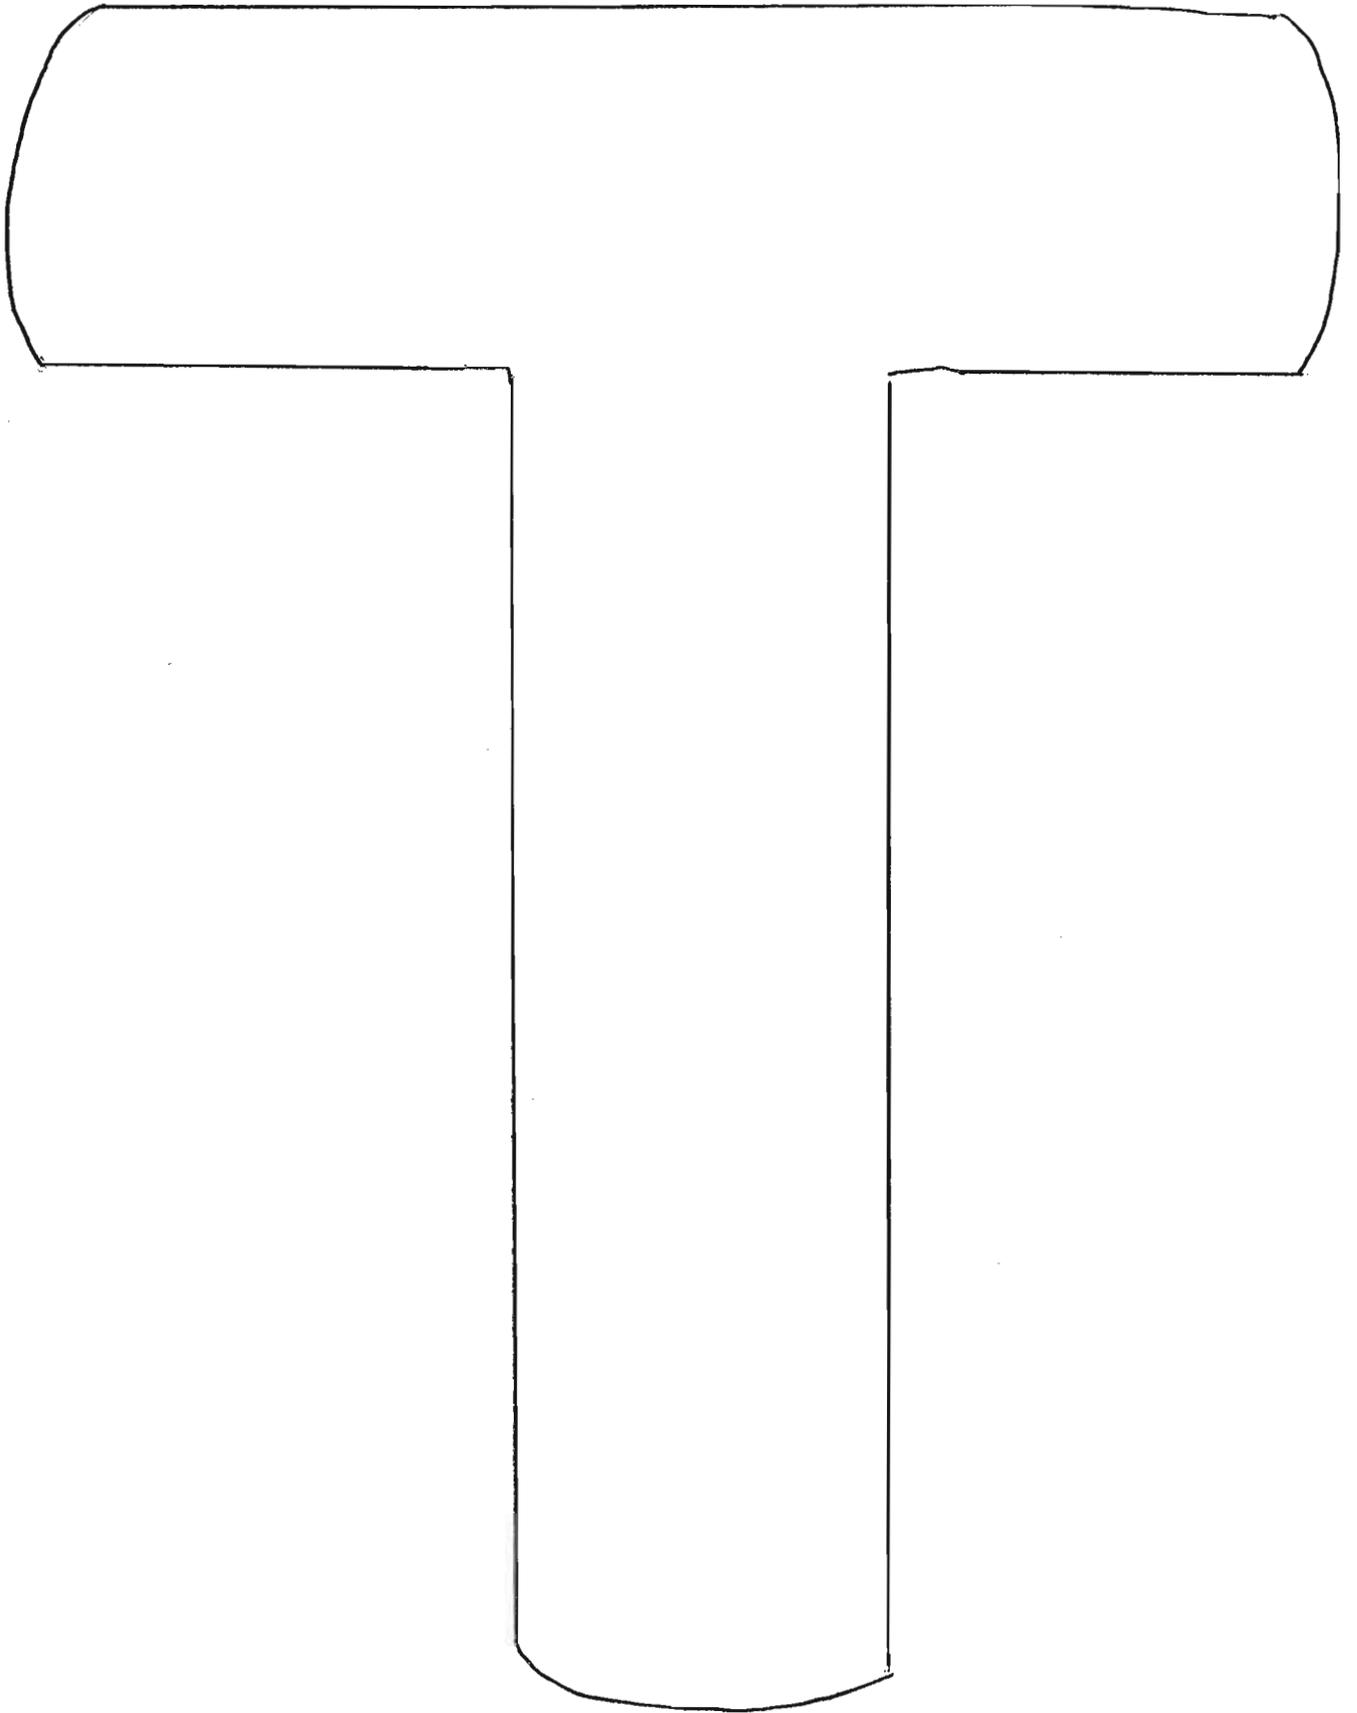

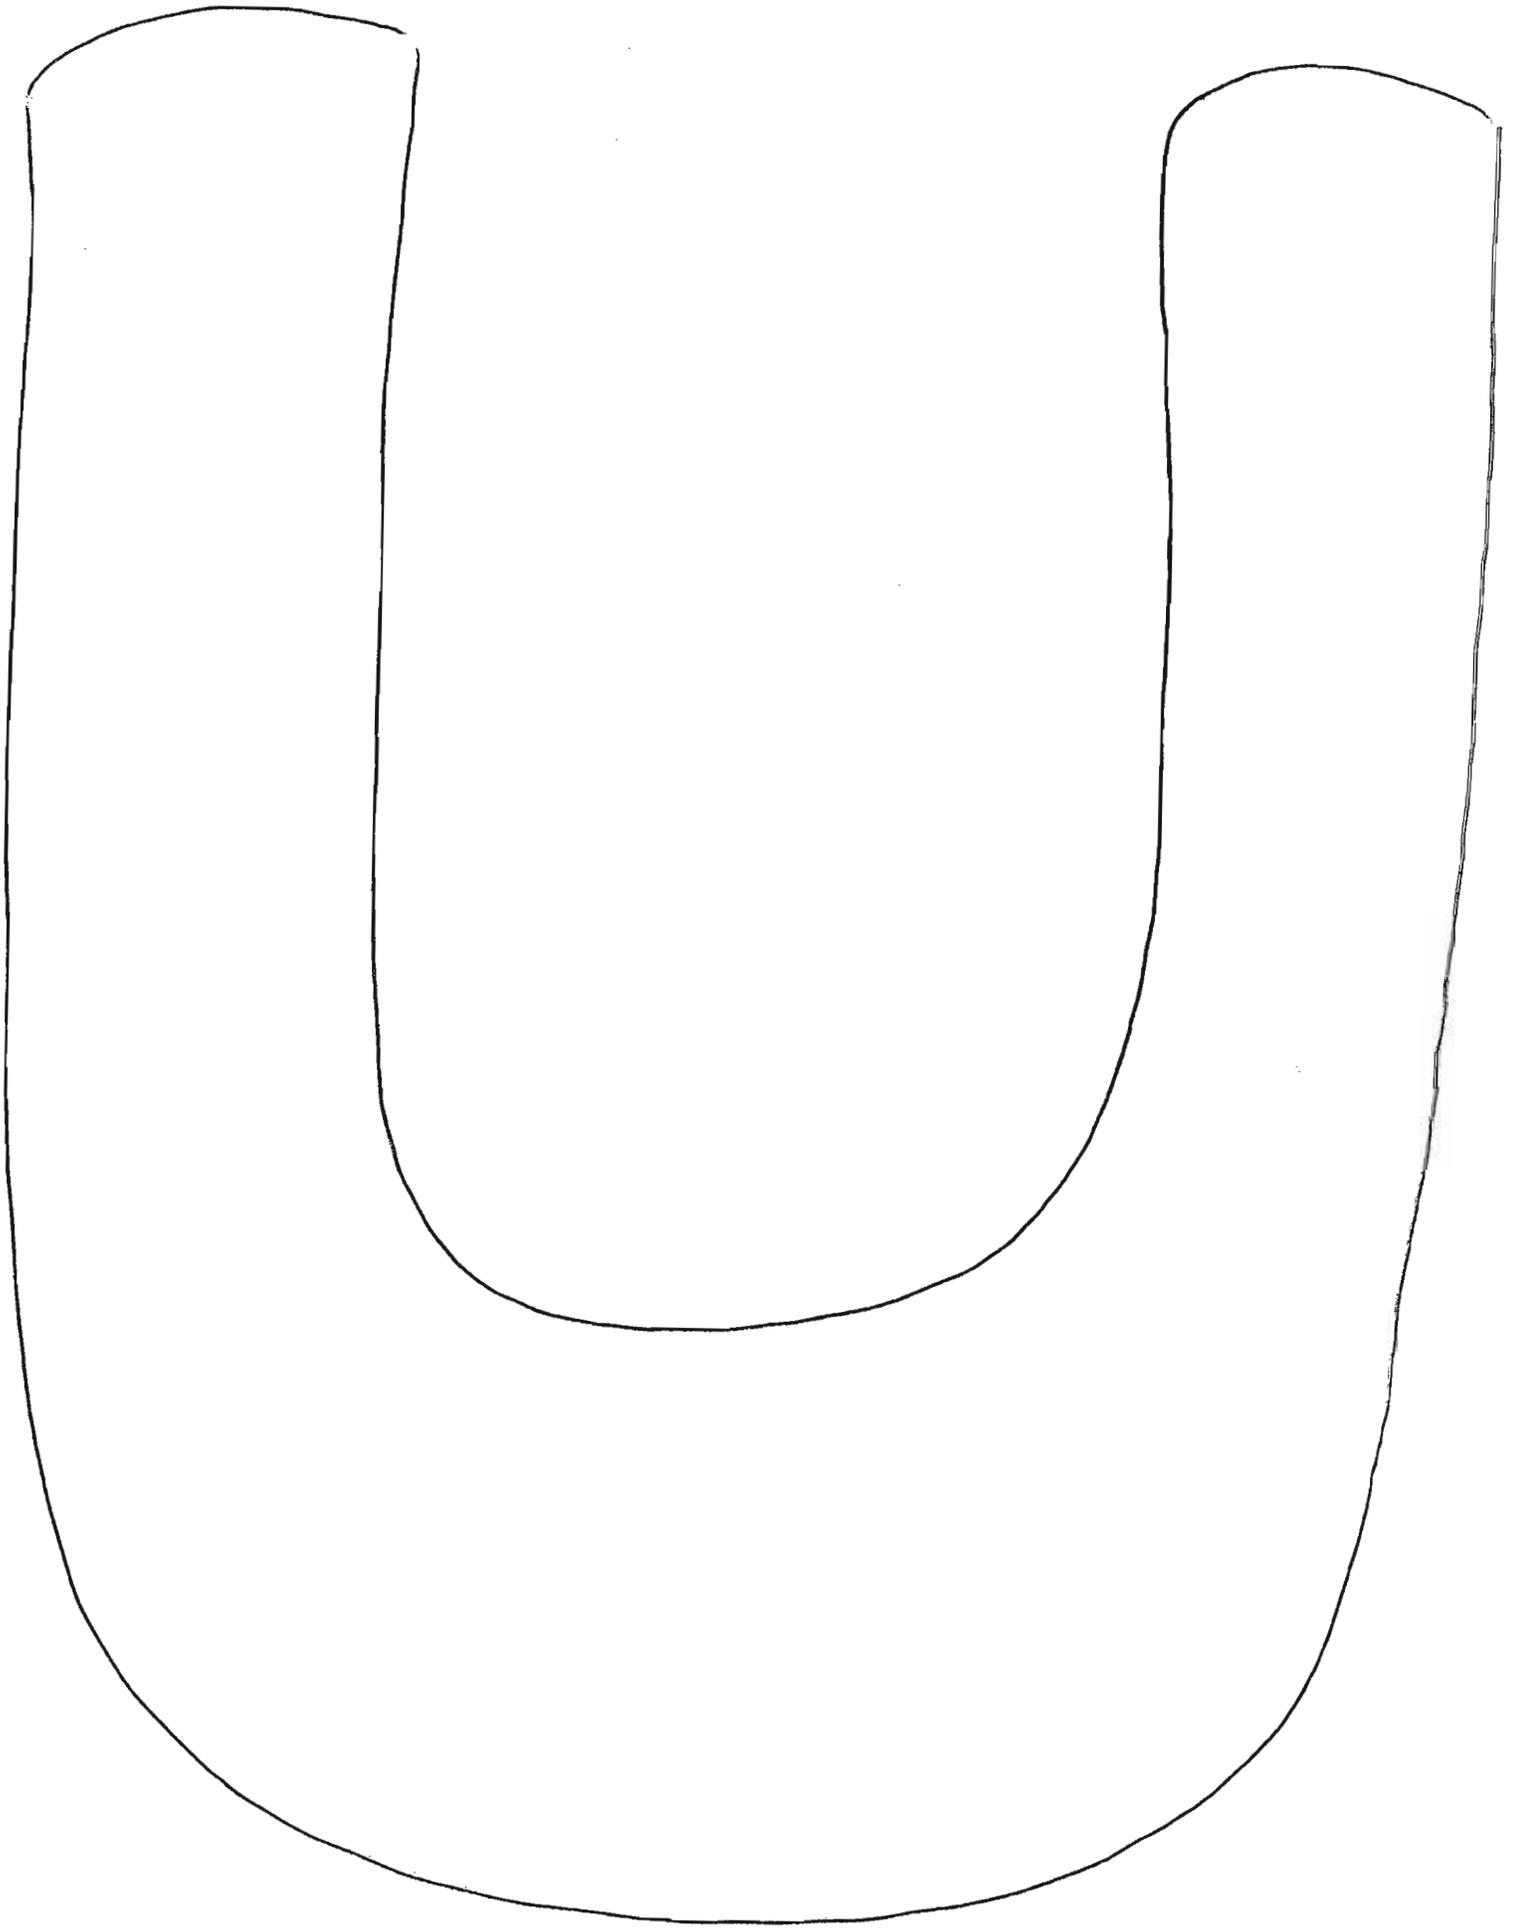

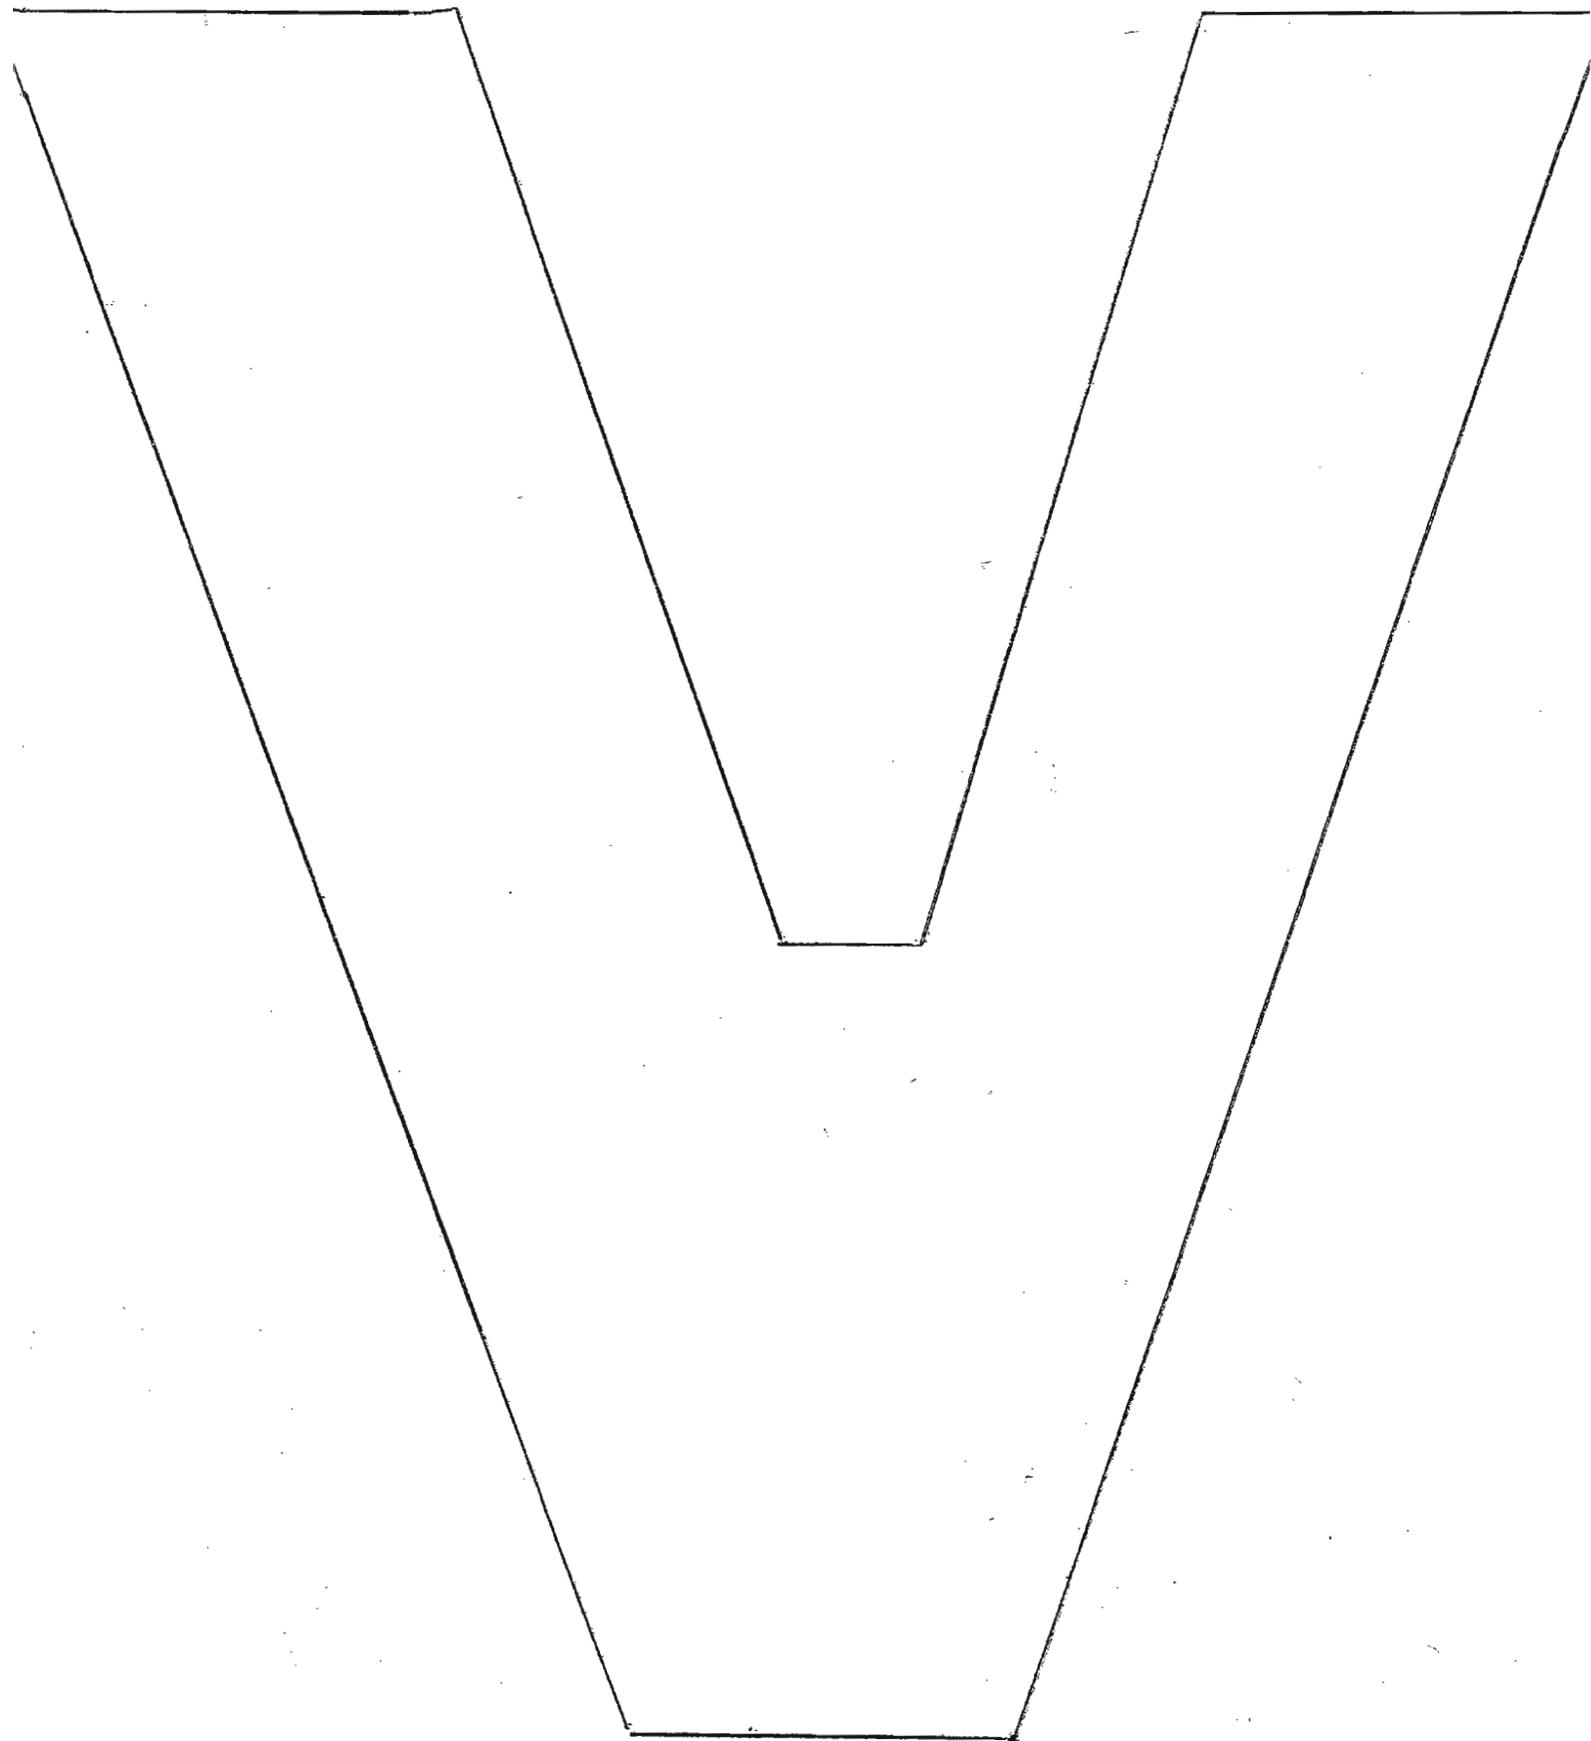

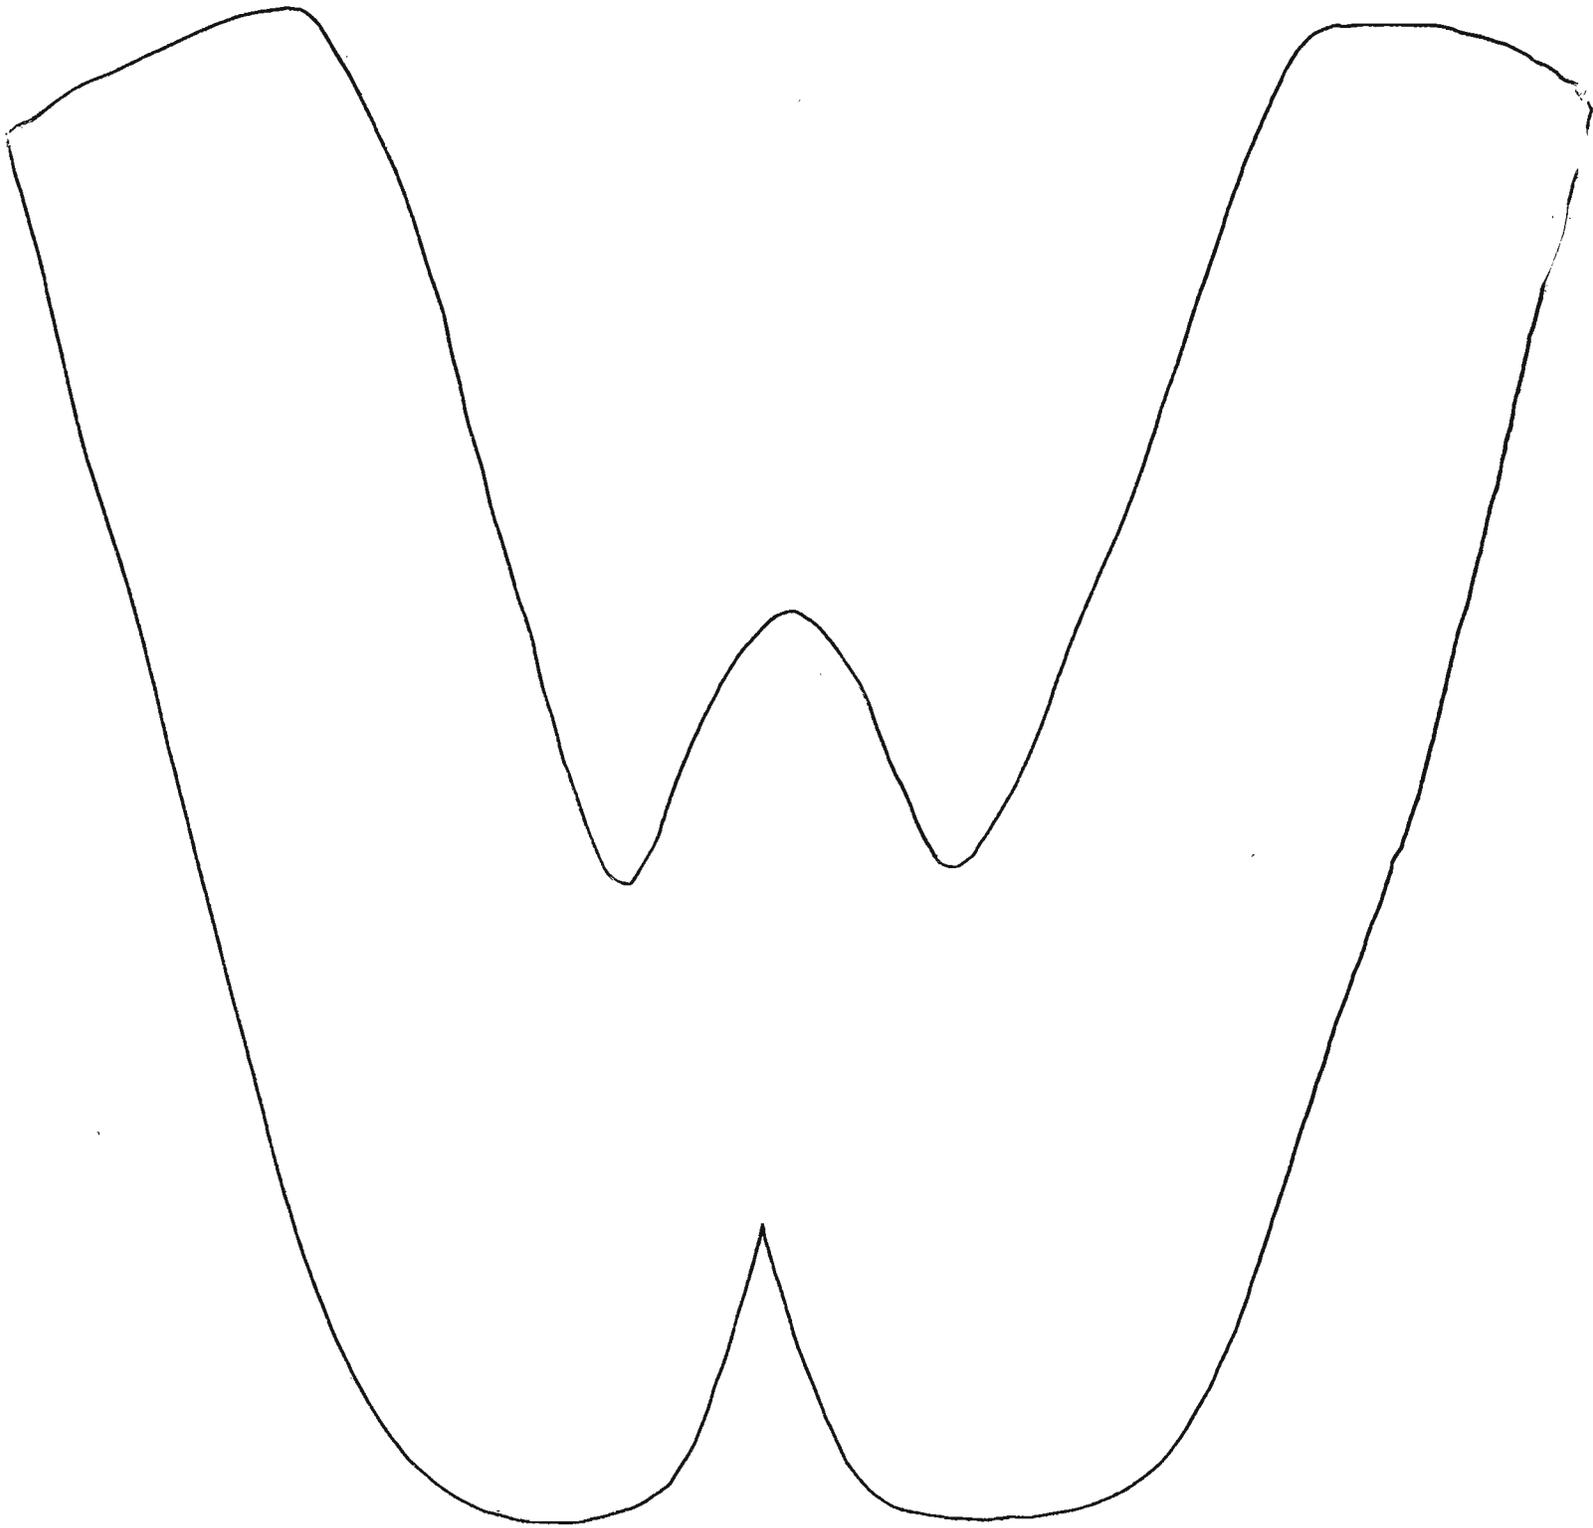

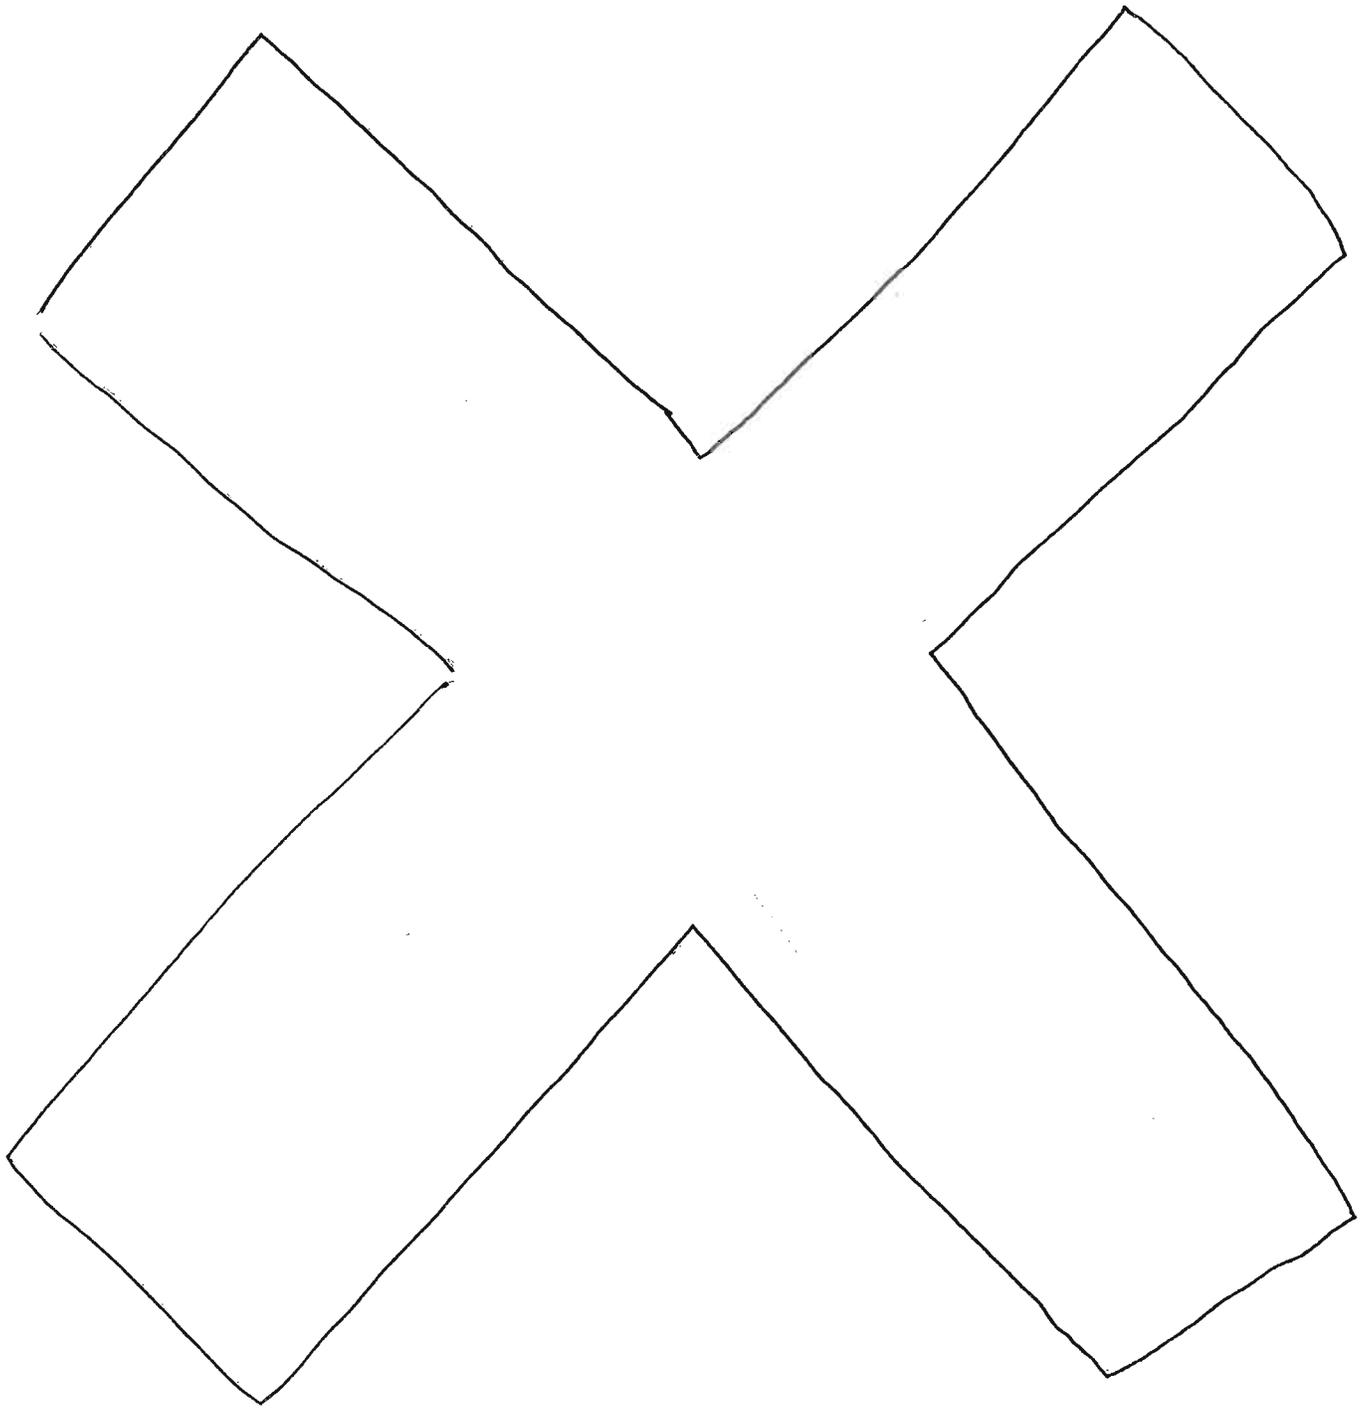

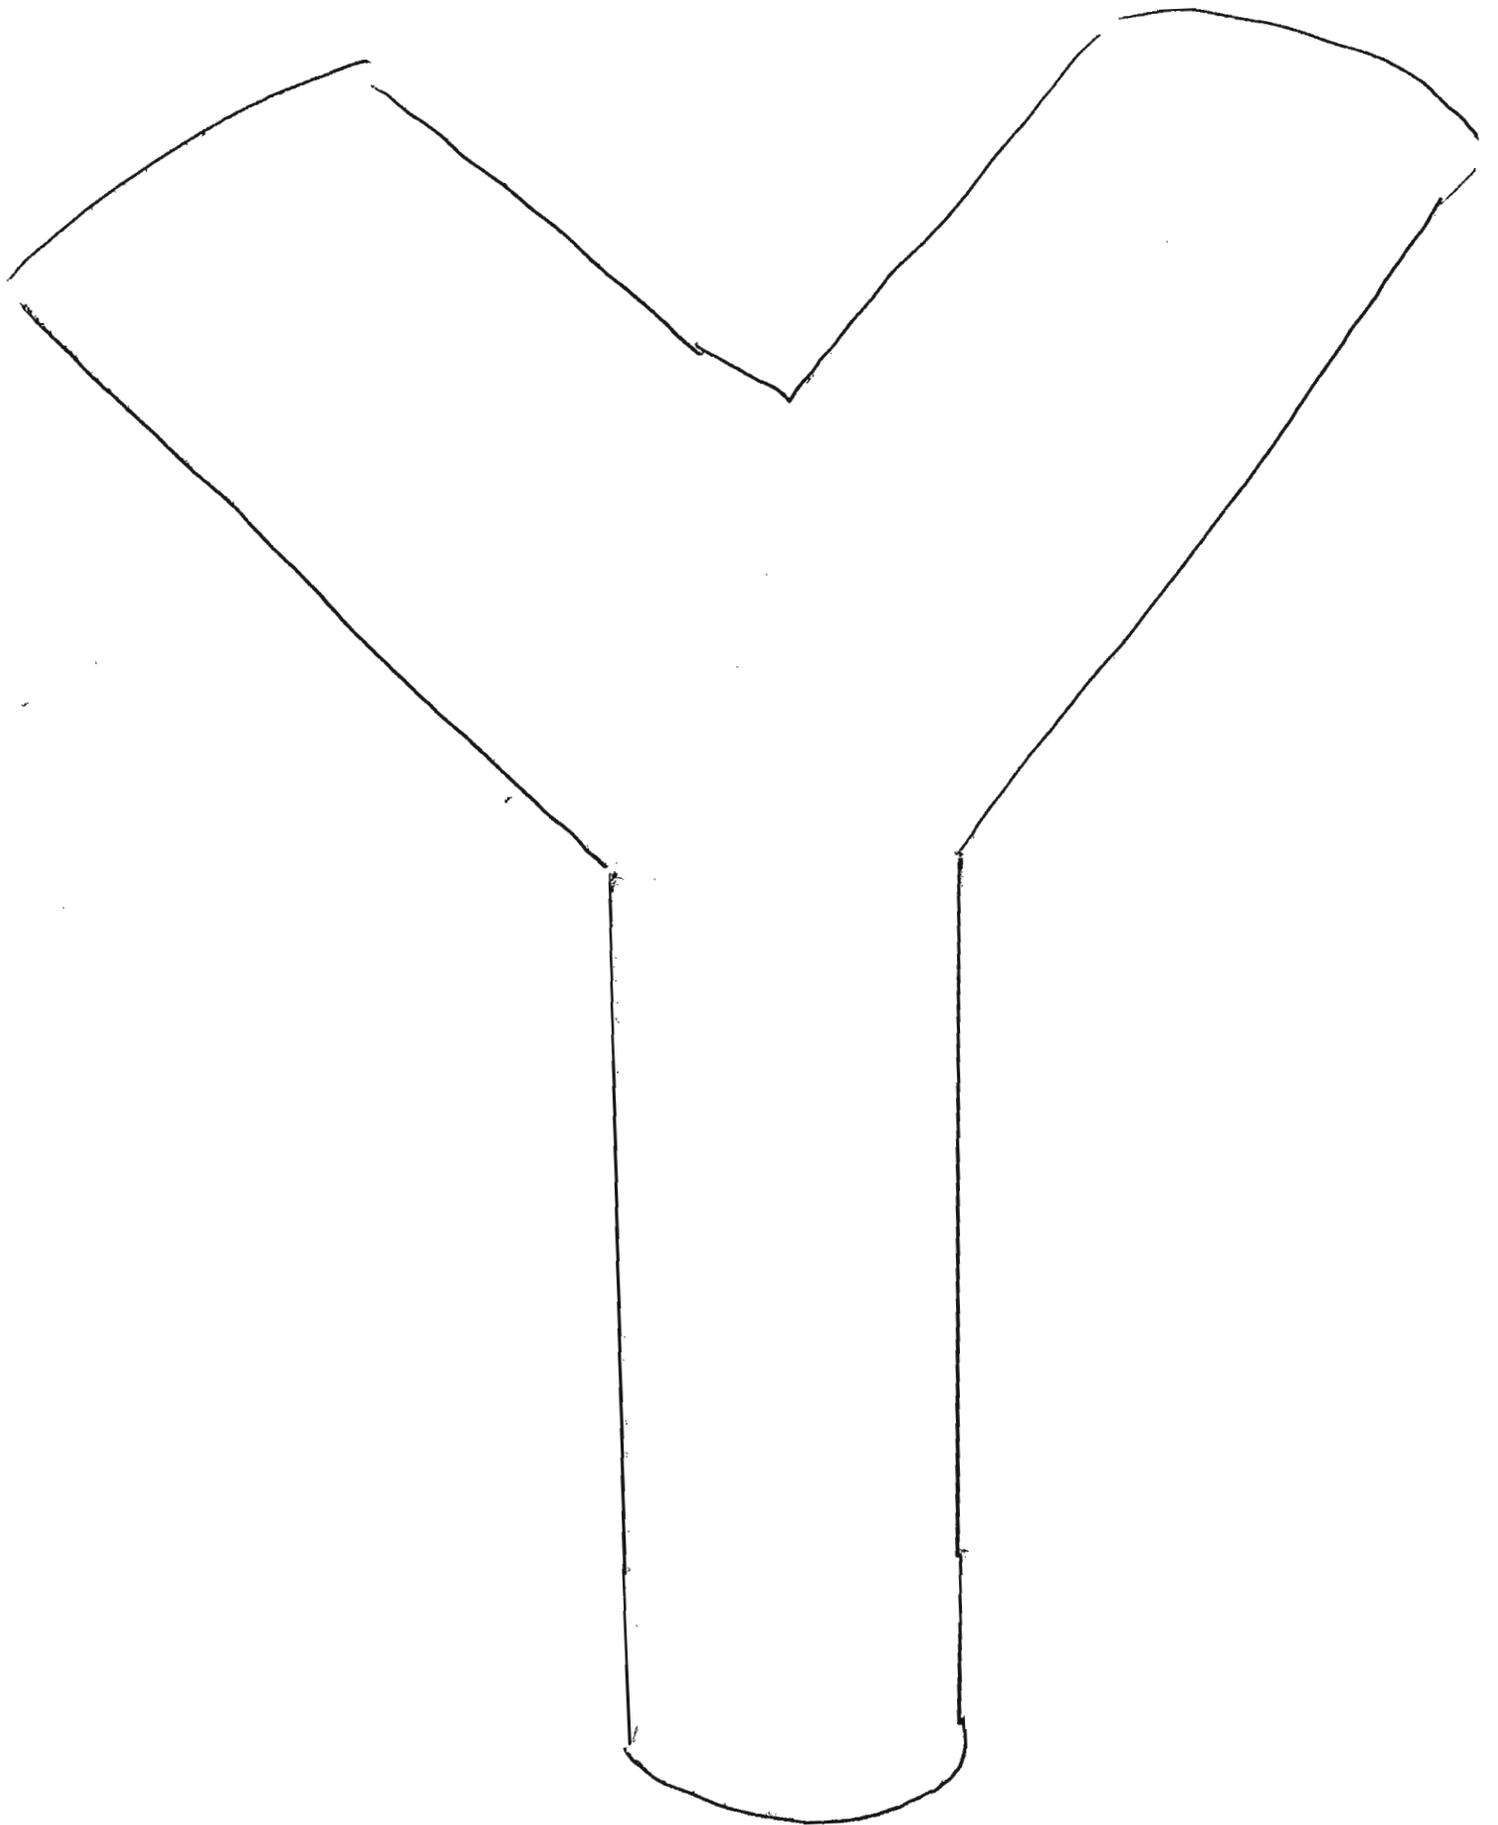

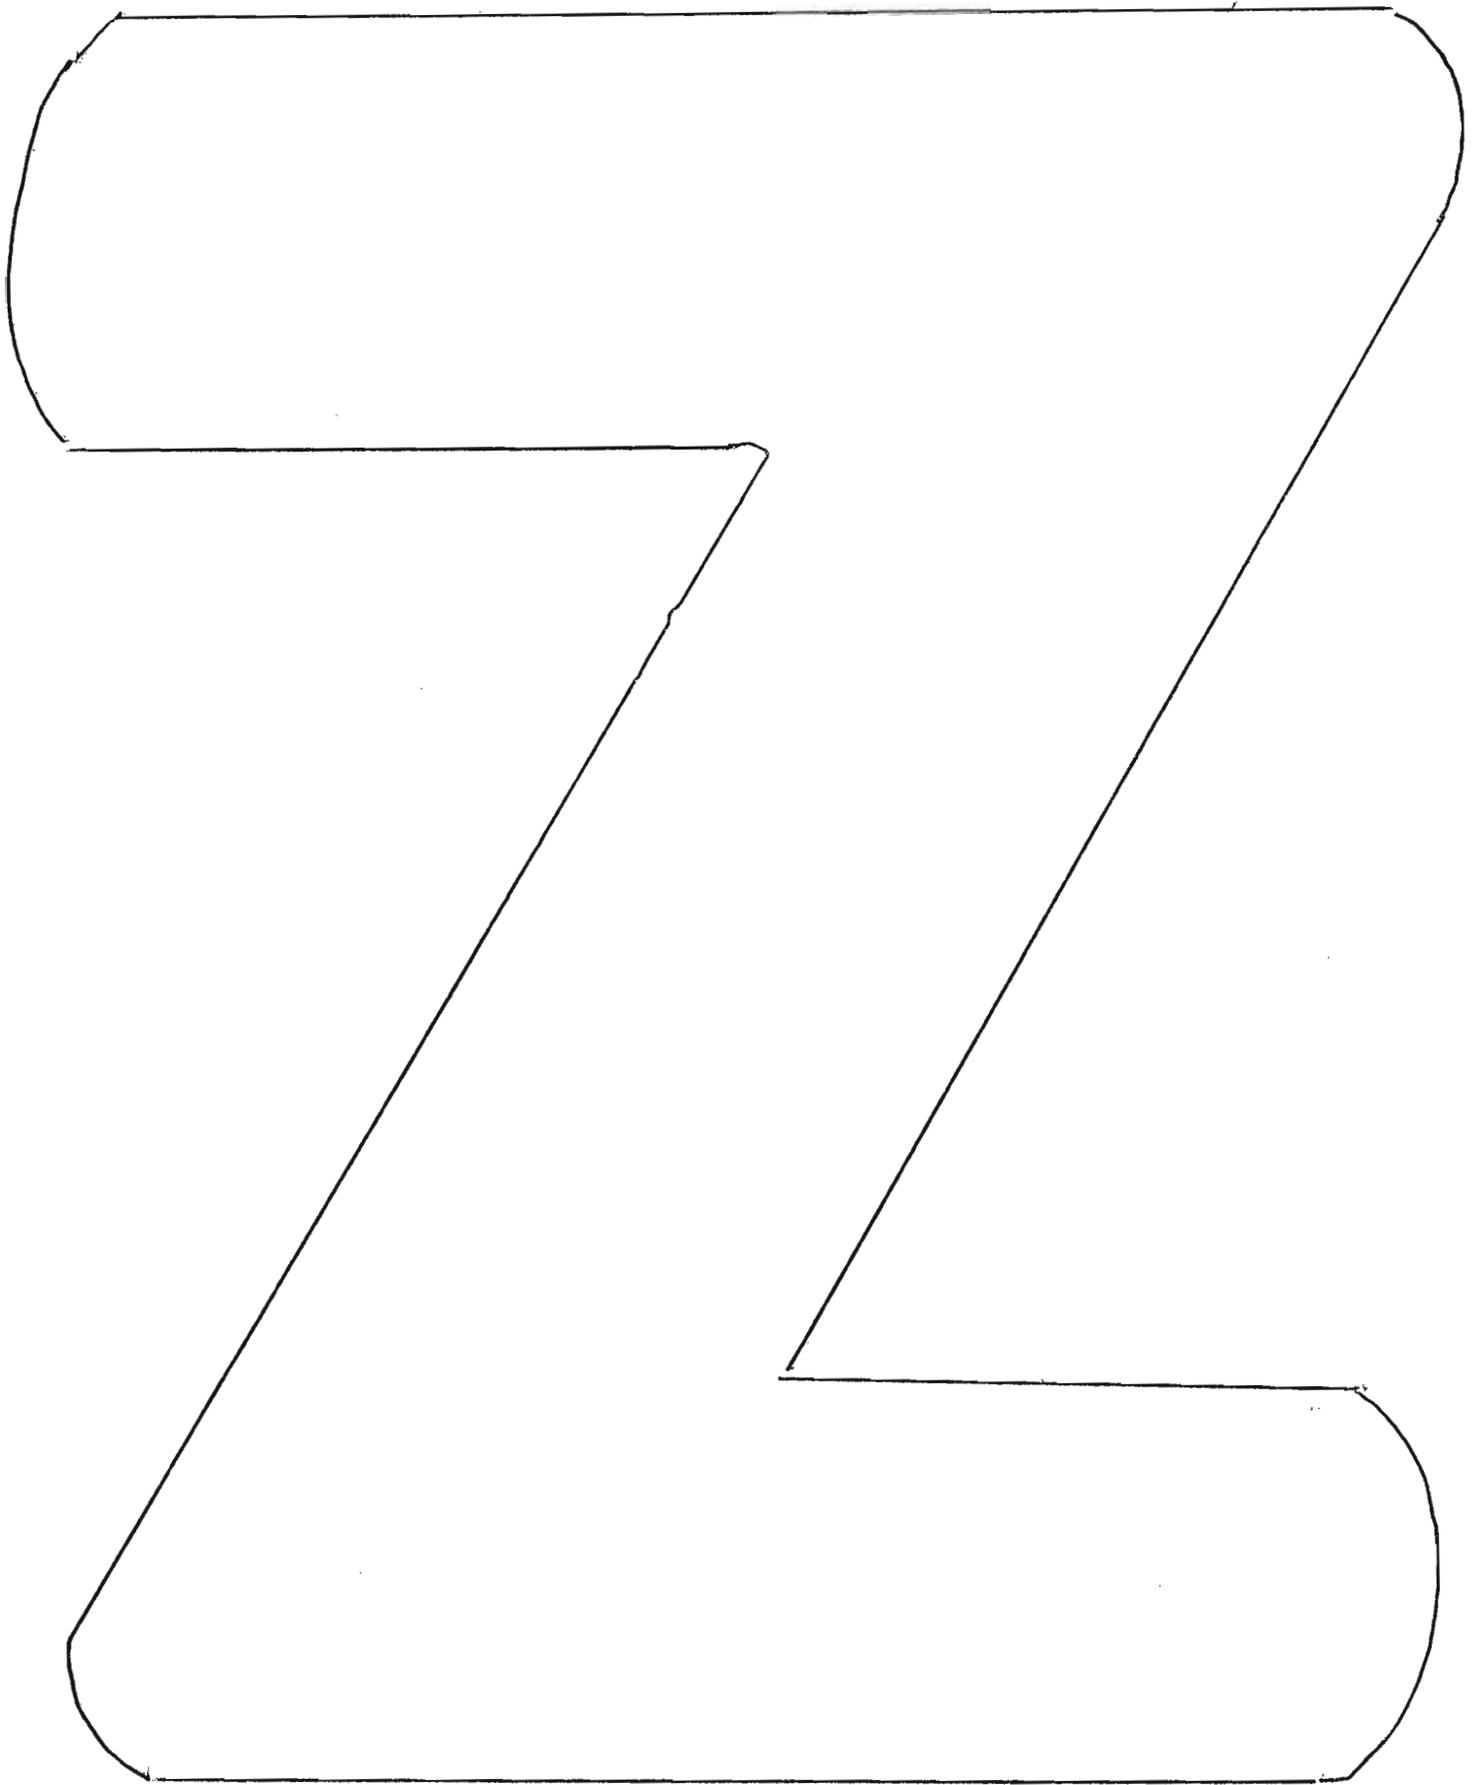

Jason,
Fun I hope you had
